ENACTMENTS OF CONGRESS FEW

MANY WEIGHTY MATTERS CONSIDERED.

RESUME OF CLOSING SESSION

AGGREGATION OF APPROPRIATIONS GREAT.

PRESIDENT THE RULING FORCE

Majority of Questions Discussed by Country's Lawmakers Were Taken Up at Roosevelt's Suggestion—Approaching Election Interfered.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—A resume of the present session of Congress elicits the interesting fact that there were more important questions presented to and discussed by Congress on which the public generally, or sections or classes, demanded action than ever before in its history. A majority of these were of President Roosevelt's making. Comparatively the enactments were few. On the other hand, the aggregation of appropriations was great, and when the final figures are obtainable it is not doubted that they will exceed those of any previous session in times of peace.

Standing conspicuously above all other questions with which Congress dealt was the effort to pass an emergency currency bill. Thrust upon the attention of legislators at the opening of the session by a financial depression that had not fully subsided, it was the first big question to be considered. Likewise, it was the hardest to meet and it did more to delay adjournment than any other measure. The Senate and House failed to agree with the result that a commission of senators and representatives in Congress, whose duty is to study the situation and report at the next session, was the alternative adopted.

Bills Affecting Labor.

Numerous bills affecting labor were considered by both the Senate and House. In the form in which the bills were presented organized labor was not heartily behind them, and questions concerning the constitutionality of many of the measures in the light of recent decisions by the supreme court of the United States raised other barriers.

It is conceded that more legislation would have resulted had it not been for the pending national elections. The elections placed the majority in a delicate situation—a fact not overlooked by the Democrats in the House, who further complicated the Republicans' position by a filibuster to compel the passage of measures demanded by President Roosevelt and opposed by a majority of the Republicans in both branches of Congress. Out of this condition of affairs was steered a new employeds liability law to take the place of that declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, and there is pending a bill providing for the compensation of government employes in hazardous occupations who are injured in line of duty. Other matters of equal importance to organized labor failed. These include an anti-injunction law provision for the exemption of organized labor from the clause of the Sherman antitrust law and other amendments to relieve labor unions from operations of this law.

Compromises Effected

Some of the striking things urged upon Congress by President Roosevelt other than those already mentioned, and which were not enacted resulted in compromises. For instance he wanted a national child labor law. He also asked for the enactment of a law regulating child labor in the District of Columbia and the territories and the latter bill was passed. The bill as passed will not serve as a model act for the encouragement of state legislatures for the reason that it was amended to fit peculiar conditions in the District of Columbia.

The construction of four battleships was urged in a special message to Congress and a fight for this program was led by administration members of both the Senate and House, which contest resulted in failure. An appropriation was made for the construction of two battleships and the policy of authorizing two each year was announced by Republican leaders, which was generally regarded as a concession to the President's big national program.

Tariff Taken Up

Authority to name a tariff commission and appoint experts to gather data, with a view to the revision of the tariff at the next session was strongly advocated. As a result resolutions were adopted in the Senate authorizing the committee on finance and in the House authorizing the committee on ways and means to conduct individual investigations. These committees are empowered to employ such experts as they need.

Several features were raised which were designed to place greater powers in the hands of the interstate commerce commission in the matter of regulating railroad rates. Among these was a proposition that the commission proceed in the physical valuation of railroads, that the commission be given the power to suspend increases in railroad rates, pending an investigation of the justice of such advances; allowing railroads to [illegible] pooling agreements, and a number of other questions.

MURDERED MEN BY WHOLESALE

RECORD OF MRS. GUNNESS IS ALMOST EQUALED.

CONFESSES TO AWFUL DEEDS

JAMES BRIMMINGSTALL ARRESTED AT SOUTH BEND.

TRIED TO KILL HIS WIFE

Story Told by Criminal Reveals Insatiable Thirst for Blood—Once Fired Into Crowd With Fatal Results, When no Provocation Was Offered.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., May 22.—Charged with six murders, James Brimmingstall, aged 40, is under arrest at Dowagiac, Mich. His arrest followed an attempt to murder his wife. According to the police, she would have been his seventh victim. The officers state that the prisoner has already confessed to several of the murders. The prisoner will be subjected to the sweat box by the police. He is being held on a charge of murdering David Huff in this city last June.

The police say he confessed to killing a man in Kansas whom he had a grudge against and was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary. After his release he killed a companion and received a sentence of three years. He gave no names.

The list of Brimmingstall's victims, according to the officers, is:

Man in Kansas (name not given, killed by Brimmingstall when 16 years old.)

Railroad man in Missouri, name unknown, killed seven years ago.

Two men sleeping in a tent in Missouri, names unknown to officers.

David Huff, Dowagiac, June, 1907.

Smith Hortium, Dowagiac, February, 1908.

Mrs. Brimmingstall, apparently distracted, appealed to Prosecuting Attorney J. T. Bresnahan for protection. She said that "Jim" was going to kill her, she could not go to sleep for fear he would break into the house and murder her. She gave hints that led to the discovery that her husband has a criminal record.

David Huff, an aged citizen of Dowagiac, went to the Brimmingstall home to live a year and a half ago. He deeded him his property on their proposition to support him for the remainder of his life. One night last June a scuffle was heard in an upper room of the house. Huff was found dead in bed with the bed clothing very much disturbed. Brimmingstall said that Huff had some sort of violent illness and accidentally choked himself to death with the bed clothing. The body of Huff was buried next day and the apparent haste occasioned some comment.

In February of this year Smith Hortium disappeared. There are several circumstances tending to connect Brimmingstall with the disappearance of Hortium. Hortium's body was found frozen in the ice of a nearby stream. His money had disappeared.

DETROIT, Mich., May 22.—A Free Press special from Dowagiac, Mich., says:

James Brimmingstall, who is under arrest here, is said to have admitted today to Prosecuting Attorney Bresnahan, that he had killed six men in the west. The prosecutor said tonight, however, that the prisoner had not implicated himself in any crime committed within the state of Michigan. The reported confession involves the shooting of two brothers named O'Brien, in Arizona 23 years ago, the shooting of a man from his horse in Arizona 21 years ago, the killing of a Missourian with a coupling pin 20 years ago, the killing of a man named Johnson in a free-for-all fight in 1888 and shooting into a crowd in Missouri in 1900 without any reason and killing one man.

GARD PLACED UNDER ARREST

Mining Promoter of Denver Said to Have Used Mails to Defraud

DENVER, May 22.—F. Chapin Gard, mining promoter with offices at 319 Charles building, Denver, who was indicted by the federal grand jury on the charge of using the mails in furtherance of schemes to defraud, was placed under arrest today.

He is alleged to have sent out alluring literature about properties in southern Utah which government inspectors claim did not justify his advertising claims. He told some of his correspondents it is said that he had mines next to established camps which had produced from $[illegible] to $[illegible] the past few years.

Gard is the manager of the Rocky Mountain Mining bureau and his chief companies are the American Consolidated Mines company and the Buckeye Mining, Milling and Smelting company. He publishes a paper called the "Great West," devoted to mining and other interests.

Looks Like Trouble.

RAIN GREAT BLESSING

PIKES PEAK REGION GETS A GOOD SOAKING.

Precipitation in Mountains Light and of Little Benefit to Water Supply.

A total rainfall of .74 of an inch, the heaviest for one day in Colorado Springs this year, was recorded at the Colorado College weather bureau yesterday. The precipitation at Lake Moraine was between .35 and .40 of an inch. A falling barometer, together with the fact that snow fell west of the lake gives rise to the hope that the much-needed wet snowfall may strike the Lake Moraine district today.

The rain was general in the entire Pikes Peak region. Heavy snow and rain fell all day and most of the night in the Cripple Creek district, and the farmers and stockmen in El Paso county and this part of the state were enriched by thousands of dollars by reason of the much-needed nourishment to the crops and grass.

Seldom in the history of Colorado Springs has a rainfall been more beneficial. This spring has been the dryest in this district since the drought of 1881, when the grass did not grow on the prairies until August. Crops all over the county have been suffering for lack of water and the lawns in the cities of Colorado Springs and Colorado City has required more sprinkling than ever before because of the dry weather. Of the six reservoirs conserving the city water supply only one besides Lake Moraine contained water. Lake Moraine itself which is usually taxed at this season of the year to its full capacity of 490,000,000 gallons held only half that amount. So serious was the situation that the Mayor and water committee of the City Council reduced the hours of lawn sprinkling from four to one each day and increased the fine for violation of the rules from $2 to $5.

Water Still Scarce.

A light snow fell at Lake Moraine shortly before noon yesterday, later changing to rain. Although this precipitation slightly swells the reservoir, it gives no material benefit with accrue to the city water supply. It is the heavy wet snow which assures a large water reserve.

The water department is especially emphatic in its warning to consumers not to stop economizing in the use of water. The principal benefit to the water reserves is a negative one in that the rain took the place of the city supply in sprinkling the lawns. Of the 3,000,000 gallons of water used from the reservoirs daily, more than one half is for sprinkling purposes and the saving of this amount was noticeable yesterday in the water level at Lake Moraine. The level rose slightly instead of falling steadily as has been the case during the recent drought.

Eight Consumers Fined

Eight water consumers caught violating the sprinkling regulations Thursday were notified by Acting Water Superintendent [illegible] that they must pay $[illegible] fine each or their water will be turned off within 24 hours. The department will maintain its stringent rules and keep the inspectors constantly on duty.

With regard to a report that the water system of the Northfield Land and Water company northeast of this city could be utilized by this city in case of necessity, a member of the water committee yesterday said that the entire [illegible] of the company would not be sufficient to warrant its use.

GOVERNMENT BEGIN ACTION IN COURT.

Files Bill in Equity to Restrain N. H. & H. Railroad Co. From Controlling B. & M. Road

BOSTON, Mass., May 22.—A bill in equity to restrain the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company from exercising any control over the Boston and Maine railway and to separate the New Haven road from the various trolley lines it has acquired was filed in the United States circuit court here today by United States District Attorney Asa P. French, acting for the federal government. The bill in equity was brought under the Sherman act of 1890, and charges that the New Haven road acquired numerous trolley lines and is attempting to control the Boston and Maine railroad in restraint of trade. The petition claims that if the New Haven road is not restricted from holding the trolley lines and voting stock of the Boston and Maine roads a situation will be created with respect to the transportation instrumentalities and facilities of New England which will eventually enable the New Haven company to control for all time the inter-state transportation not only among the New England states, but between such states and the several other states of the Union.

LAMPHERE IS INDICTED

SEVEN TRUE BILLS RETURNED BY GRAND JURY.

Mrs. Gunness Also Indicted to Make Possible Lamphere's Indictment as Accessory in Murder

LA PORTE, Ind., May 22.—In returning seven true bills against Ray Lamphere this afternoon, the La Porte county grand jury also indicted Mrs. Bella Gunness for the murder of Andrew Helgelein of Mansfield, S. D. No warrant was issued for Mrs. Gunness as she was declared officially dead by the verdict of Coroner Mack. In order to vote a true bill against Lamphere as an accessory in the killing of Helgelein it was necessary to indict Mrs. Gunness as the principal. Lamphere now stands before the bar of justice officially charged with arson, five murders and being an accessory in the Helgelein murder.

In the indictment for arson, it is charged that Lamphere set fire to a certain dwelling house of the value of $2,500 of the property of one Bella Gunness, wherein said dwelling was burned and entirely consumed to the damage of said Bella Gunness in the sum of $2,500.

The digging today resulted in the unearthing of a human skull which it is believed belongs to one of the bodies dug up in the chicken yard two weeks ago. At that time, three skeletons were found in one hole, but there were only two skulls. The skull found today was in a cesspool and why it was dropped there and the rest of the body buried in the little cemetery, the authorities can not explain. Long hair attached to the skull is considered evidence that it is that of a woman. [illegible] of three dismembered bodies referred [illegible]

SAILORMEN ON PARADE

BELLINGHAM, WASH., HONORED BY FLEET'S PRESENCE.

Vessels Will Weigh Anchors Early Today Preparatory to Trip to Seattle—Thousands of Visitors.

BELLINGHAM, Wash., May 22.—The first division, comprising seven Atlantic battleships, today visited the citizens of Bellingham and this section of Washington, furnishing 3,500 sailors and marines from the ships parading through the streets to martial music before 100,000 people. The day was the crowning one of Rear Admiral Sperry's visit to this picturesque port.

From every village, town, city and farm in the northwest counties of Washington and from British Columbia, men, women and children flocked to this little town from the farthest corners of the United States, coming by special trains, steamers and wagons and other, the parade started the visitors outnumbered the citizens.

Spontaneous response to the spirit of the occasion was aroused when the naval bands struck up a medley of patriotic airs and a surging throng cheered for many minutes the men in naval uniforms and white caps as they swung through the streets in perfect time, giving the impression from the reviewing stand of an undulating bed of tulips.

There was nothing to mar the beauty of the parade. Clouds during the early morning threatened showers, but the business of the hour proceeded with a certainty that merited the success it received at the last. The sun of midday at last gleamed brightly and was reflected by the equipment of the bands. Following Lieutenant Radley of the National guard of Washington and his aides appeared the platoon of local police in new uniforms. Preceded by a marine band came an automobile carrying Rear Admiral Sperry, who responded to the crowds as every new tribute was made manifest.

Carriages containing naval officers followed and then the sailors and marines with bands of music interspersed. With the same regularity which marked the formation of the many battalions the men disbanded after the parade and again the launches were busy going to and from with their thousands of tired marchers and the throngs visiting the ships.

All business was suspended and at night all the streets were thronged. The chief social event tonight was a ball given to officers of the fleet at Fairhaven park, where as night the enlisted men danced with the fair daughters of Bellingham.

Fireworks were discharged by Japanese and Chinese residents. At the theaters the seamen are guests of the city. The illuminated warships were a wonder and delight to the people. Early tomorrow before the citizens have awakened anchors will be weighed and the seven vessels of the division will be steaming towards Port Townsend where the fleet will reassemble preparatory to its triumphant entrance into Seattle.

PORT TOWNSEND, Wash., May 22.—Unbounded hospitality at every hand has followed the official welcome to Washington state proffered to the officers and men of the battleships Kearsarge and Illinois at this port by Acting Governor Charles Coon, who came here from Olympia for the purpose. Jack Tar has been given a taste of Puget Sound fellowship. Port Townsend fairly outdid herself in her reception to the officers and men. Nearly all places of amusement have been thrown open to the sailormen and today the coast artillery officers played special host at Fort Worden, at which the fleet officers were honored [illegible] and the [illegible] and public generally will be the special guests of Port Townsend's fair maids and matrons at a dance.

CHURCH BODIES IN CONFERENCE

PRESBYTERIANS, METHODISTS AND BAPTISTS MEET.

ABLE PLEA FOR EVANGELISM

KANSAS CITY ASSEMBLY SPEAKERS WAX ELOQUENT

VOTING ON BISHOPS GOES ON

Revs. H. S. Stuntz, W. S. Lewis and W. A. Small Lead in M. E. Contest Being Waged at Baltimore—Indians Attend Oklahoma Convention.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 22.—Evangelism is the spirit of the church. "Evangelism that the world may be won for Christ" was the keynote of the speeches delivered by the ministers at the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America today.

The speeches followed the report of the committee on evangelistic work. After the report was submitted by Rev. J. Wilbur Chapman of Philadelphia, Rev. Dr. J. C. Calhoun of Philadelphia, who is in charge of the evangelistic work of the Cumberland branch of the church made an eloquent plea for evangelism.

Dr. William H. Roberts of Philadelphia said that the Presbyterian church was an evangelistic church and he cited history to prove that it had always been.

Dr. B. P. Fullerton of St. Louis, the moderator, delivered a strong address urging the 1,300,000 members of the church to take up the work of individual evangelism.

Dr. Chapman then gave an address on the practical work of the committee explaining what had been accomplished.

For Sunday Observance.

That all labor on Sunday, including the publishing of newspapers and the preparation of lessons by students, the holding of funerals and unnecessary traveling and all excursions should be condemned was embodied in the report of the committee on Sabbath observance. Speeches following this report aroused the assembly to the highest pitch of enthusiasm and a resolution was adopted petitioning Congress to enact a law similar to the Switzerland law which insures to all workmen in every year 52 days of 24 hours each to rest. Praise was accorded President Roosevelt, Governor Folk of Missouri, Governor Hoch of Kansas and Judge William H. Wallace of this city for their attitude toward law enforcement.

Judge Wallace Presented

Judge Wallace was presented to the assembly as the greatest exponent of Sunday observance in the United States. Judge Wallace delivered a stirring address in which he explained the operation of the Missouri statute forbidding Sunday labor discussing the subject as a lawyer.

Ex-Congressman Darwin R. James of Brooklyn was chosen today as vice moderator of the assembly. Mr. James is a wholesale merchant and was for 25 years president of the New York board of trade and transportation.

Tonight at Convention hall there was a popular meeting in the interest of Sunday school and young people's work at which a chorus of 500 children furnished the music.

The Women's Board of Home missions held a meeting today at which addresses were delivered by Professor George B. Sweeney of Salt Lake and others.

Balloting on Bishops

BALTIMORE, Md., May 22.—Balloting and reporting ineffectual ballots for bishops today consumed most of the time and absorbed much of the interest of the delegates to the Methodist Episcopal general conference. No choice was reported as the result of the fifth, sixth and seventh ballots and before the end of the day the eighth was taken and is in the hands of the tellers with instructions to report the result to the conference tomorrow morning.

Information tonight of most reliable character is to the effect that the eighth ballot resulted in no election, but shows Rev. H. S. Stuntz, Rev. Wilson S. Lewis, Rev. W. A. Quayle in the leading places in the order named.

Colo. [illegible] Candidate Withdraws.

Perhaps the most notable showing of the ballots was the rapid advance in the standing of Rev. H. S. Stuntz from 186 votes and eleventh place on the fourth ballot, to third place, with 427 votes, on the seventh ballot. The leading colored candidate, Rev. [illegible] [illegible]

Rev. W. A. Quayle of Chicago advanced to second place with [illegible] votes and though showing a net loss of nine votes, Rev. Wilson S. Lewis of Sioux City, Iowa, took the leading place in the poll. LITTLE PROSPECT OF SHIP SUBSIDY

ACTION OF HOUSE PRACTICALLY REMOVES HOPE.

REJECTS CONFERENCE REPORT

BILL EMBODYING PROVISION AGAIN IN CONFERENCE.

CAMPAIGN PUBLICITY BILL

Senate Considers Measures Amended by Crumpacker Resolution Extending Time for Putting in Effect Hepburn Rate Law Discussed in Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Practically [illegible] [illegible] was [illegible] today when the House by a vote of 45 to [illegible] rejected the conference report on the postoffice appropriation bill containing a provision therefor and on which the principal fight was made. The bill was sent back to conference and there now is little prospect that the House conferees will yield to the Senate.

A campaign publicity bill, embodying an amendment by Mr. Crumpacker of Indiana, providing for a reduction of the representation in the House of Representatives in those states having disfranchisement laws, was passed by the House today by a vote of 160 to [illegible] following a lively debate.

The measure was brought up under suspension of the rules and 40 minutes were allowed in which to discuss it. The southern members in particular were bitter in their denunciation of the apportionment provision of the bill. Mr. Williams, the minority leader, was especially vigorous in his attack, characterizing the bill as an attempt to revive the conditions of reconstruction days. After the Crumpacker amendment the Democrats voted against the bill in its entirety. In brief, the provision regarding publicity of campaign contributions is made applicable to the national committees and the national congressional committees of all parties and all committees, associations or organizations, which shall, in two or more states, influence the result or attempt to influence the result of an election at which representatives in Congress are to be elected.

Crumpacker Amendment

The Crumpacker amendment provides for the re-enactment of certain sections of the old federal election law except that the idea of the unenacted force bill authorizing the use of troops at the polls is eliminated. It also provides that the director of the census shall submit to Congress a report of population showing the number of male citizens white and black in each state and the number disfranchised for the purpose of enabling Congress to ascertain the apportionments in representation to which such states may be entitled.

Although the Crumpacker amendment does not in express terms state that it is especially applicable to the southern states, such, nevertheless is accepted as the fact.

By way of cleaning up pending business the omnibus pension bill conference report was received, the conference report on the District of Columbia appropriation bill was agreed to and the Senate amendments to the general deficiency and military [illegible] appropriation and omnibus Indian [illegible] bills were all disagreed to and the bills sent to conference.

The Democrats exercised their constitutional prerogative, and in all cases forced roll calls in the disposition of business in hand.

Foraker on Rate La..

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Consideration of the resolution extending the time for putting into effect the penalty provision of the commodity clause of the Hepburn railroad rate law was resumed in the Senate today and it was discussed at some length by Mr. Foraker, who made reference to the [illegible] portions of the reply of the interstate commerce commission to the [illegible] resolution inquiring as to compliance of railways with the section of the rate law.

Mr. Foraker contended that the railroads were [illegible] keeping separate accounts as a compliance with the [illegible]. This they were doing in order to continue supplying their patrons with coal, as because of the [illegible] of the [illegible] they could not segregate their coal lands. Mr. Foraker asked the Senate to pass his substitute which he [illegible] [illegible] from hauling any commodity of its own production [illegible] since the [illegible] [illegible]

AIRS VIEWS ON MONEY

BRYAN MAKES ADDRESS ON BANKING BUSINESS.

Commoner Speaks Before Bankers Club of Chicago, Making Plea for an Emergency Currency.

CHICAGO, May 22.—William J. Bryan made a plea before the Bankers club of Chicago, tonight, for an emergency currency that would enable state as well as national banks to relieve money stringency, and sounded a warning that the people would demand a government bank unless absolute security for deposits can be assured them.

He spoke on "The Banking Business" before several hundred members, on the occasion of the one hundred and fourth regular meeting of the club.

On the subject of emergency currency, Mr. Bryan said that he believed this currency should be issued by the federal government and loaned to the banks. One reason advanced for the belief was that the state bank could be given the same assistance in times of need as the government institution.

"I do not know," he said, "why a state bank should not be thus aided in the matter of relieving distress. In my opinion, the state and national bank should be placed on the same footing, when it comes to the question of securing emergency currency."

He said he believed that our present banking system, with 20,000 independent banks, more nearly meets the needs of the people of this country than a system like that of the bank of England would do, but he declared that the system needed a general overhauling.

"The thing for us to do," he said, "is to take the system we have, examine it, correct its faults and make it respond to public sentiment, for if anyone thinks he can ignore public sentiment, that person will learn his mistake when it is too late."

On the question of affording security to the depositor, Mr. Bryan declared that the temptation to gamble was the source of most of the great bank failures, and suggested the necessity for a law that would remove this temptation from persons who handle other people's money. It is not enough, he said, to make banks reasonably secure. We must provide a banking system, he said, not only for "reasonable people," but for "unreasonable" ones, and he called it a short-sighted policy on the part of the bankers to resist a just demand from 15,000,000 people for absolute security.

"If the banks of this country refuse to give this security," he continued, "it is they and they alone who will be responsible if this government is driven to establish a government bank. If the government savings bank comes, the $500 deposit limit will not last through more than one session of Congress. If you bankers refuse to give the security people demand, there can be no doubt of the future popularity of the government savings bank. I would rather have guaranteed banks than government banks, but when the time comes, I will stand with the 15,000,000 depositors for the bank of absolute security."

Among other cures for the banking ills of the country, Mr. Bryan suggested adoption of the system recently inaugurated in Oklahoma where, he said, every bank in a certain district stands behind every other bank, the plan being worked out through one-quarter of one per cent on the amount of valued deposits.

MILLIONAIRE IN TROUBLE

Jacoby of Mexico City Charged With Misappropriation of Funds.

MEXICO CITY, May 22.—Financial and business circles of Mexico City have been shaken by the greatest sensation in years through the order of the judge of the second instruction today to bring Martin Jacoby, a millionaire and head of the mercantile house of Jacoby, into court on the charge of misappropriation of funds, which, it is claimed, will total between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000.

The order was issued on the representation made to the court by prominent bankers and financiers.

The house of Jacoby constitutes the largest cotton-buying concern in the republic. To all practical intents, it held a corner on the market. It is declared that out of a series of speculations and perhaps partly resulting from the October panic, the house during recent months has suffered a loss of millions of dollars.

SAILOR KILLED BY STREET CAR

Fender on Which Jackies Were Riding, Gives Way.

BELLINGHAM, Wash., May 22.—J. J. Straub, a seaman on the New Jersey, was killed this evening and F. Lulinski, third-class master of arms, of the same vessel, was seriously injured in a street car accident this afternoon.

Straub and Lulinski were riding on the fender of a heavily-crowded car returning from a pleasure resort. The fender gave way and the two sailors fell under the wheels. Straub's body was almost cut in two. Lulinski was still conscious when taken from under the wheels.

Some hope is expressed that he will live. Straub's home is in Detroit. Lulinski enlisted in Chicago.

CHEESE AND NOT RIFLES

Steamer Empire Carried No Arms Into Central America.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 22.—After deliberating for five hours a jury in the United States district court today declared that it was cheese and not rifles that the steamer Empire carried from San Francisco to the revolutionists in Central America in May, 1906, and found Harry J. Hart and Captain N. W. Liberoth not guilty of conspiracy against the neutrality laws of the United States.

The jury, however, brought in a verdict of guilty in the other two counts in the indictment, charging Liberoth, as master of the Empire, with having failed to file a manifest of the cargo with the collector of customs and with having left port without clearance papers.

tions involving the regulation of interstate commerce. None of these bills was passed, but a substantial victory for the commission was won in the appropriation of $350,000 for the establishment of a statistical and accounting department of the commission, which appropriation was opposed by Chairman Tawney of the House committee on appropriations.

Stay of Hepburn Law Penalty.

An effort is still in progress by the Senate to suspend the operation of the commodities clause of the Hepburn railroad act until January 1, 1910, but there has been no general sentiment in either body demanding this legislation in the interest of railroads which own mines and manufacturing establishments. A further argument against the proposition has appeared in the fact that there has been little legislation in aid of other commercial classes or for the benefit of labor organizations. The commodities clause became effective on May 1 and under it railroads which transport interstate commerce productions of mines or manufacturing plants, which they own wholly or in part, are subject to heavy penalties for each violation. The law applies particularly to railroads which own coal mines. There was a considerable faction in Congress which believed no necessity existed for the relief of railroads from the operation of this law, as they were of the opinion that the law, when tested, will be declared unconstitutional.

Some general revision of the Sherman antitrust law, in the interest of both capital and labor, was demanded, and a bill was presented by the National Civic federation. It was advocated strongly by Seth Low, Victor Morawetz and other well-known persons, but Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and an officer of the National Civic federation as well, did not take kindly to it. After a number of hearings were held before the judiciary committee of the House and Senate, it became evident that it stood no chance of passage. A movement was then started for the appointment of a commission to consider such legislation during the recess of Congress, but this met with no encouragement.

Conserving of Natural Resources.

The question of conserving the natural resources was before the session prominently for many weeks. An effort was made in both bodies to secure an appropriation for the creation of the southern Appalachian and White mountains forest reserves, but it did not succeed. As an alternative, a commission to investigate was authorized. The creation of a "waterways fund," by making an appropriation of $50,000,000, was advocated and rejected. As a substitute, a bill was prepared to "continue" the inland waterways commission, which bill was amended to "authorize" the commission. On this subject there was a great deal of debate, it being contended that President Roosevelt had no authority to appoint the commission in the first place.

Great interest attached to this legislation, because of the convening by President Roosevelt of the conference of governors during the present month. At this conference, questions connected with the conservation of natural resources were brought conspicuously before Congress. The bill to permit the President to appoint the inland waterways commission was passed.

An act of general interest was the provision for a substantial increase in the pay of officers and enlisted men of the army, navy, marine corps, revenue service and life-saving service of the government. Several other bills were passed for the benefit of the military establishment, and among these was a provision to increase the marine corps by what will amount to one regiment.

A bill was passed removing the restrictions from the sale and disposition of lands held by members of the Five Civilized tribes, except fullbloods. The effect of this act is to put $150,000,000 of property on the tax lists of Oklahoma, which will increase the revenues of that state by about $3,000,000 annually.

Campaign Publicity Bills.

Campaign publicity bills were considered in both branches of Congress, but none of the measures became law; bills regulating the shipment of liquor to prohibition states were considered without results, and bills to establish postal savings banks met the same fate.

The announced policy of President Roosevelt to veto bills for the construction of dams across navigable streams until such bills provide for the compensation of the government for the franchise and contain some limitation on the time the franchise shall run, resulted in a number of such measures being sidetracked. The Rainy river (Minnesota) dam project, which was passed by Congress and vetoed by the President, because of the absence of such provisions, was passed over the President's veto. The reason for this action was that authority to construct this dam was granted before the President's policy was announced and the company building the dam expended a great deal of money upon it, the vetoed bill being merely to extend the time of completion of the project. At the same time, there were large numbers of bills passed, authorizing the construction of dams as well as many bills providing for the building of bridges across navigable streams.

A determined effort was made to take a step looking toward ship subsidy. The ocean mail subvention bill was passed as an amendment to the postoffice appropriation bill. It met with opposition in the House and is a disputed item in conference. It is intended to encourage the establishment of mail and passenger steamship lines from the United States ports to ports of South America, Philippines, Japan, China and Australia. Another important piece of legislation in the postoffice bill is a provision authorizing the postmaster general to suppress periodicals which publish articles inciting anarchy, arson or murder.

Miscellaneous Matters.

Among other matters which became laws at the present session are the following:

Prohibiting betting on races in the District of Columbia; requiring the registration of all cases of tuberculosis in the District of Columbia, which is intended as a model for state legislation; reclassification of many important posts in the consular service; repealing the shipping law in relation to trade with the Philippine islands, so as to permit the free operation of foreign vessels and increasing from $8 to $12 a month the pensions to widows and orphans of soldiers.

During the session, 3,794 private pension bills became laws.

Many matters were before one body without attracting attention in the other. In the Senate was the Brownsville affray and the movement for the reinstatement of the negro soldiers who were discharged without honor, the whole subject going over until next session; an investigation of charges of structural defects in battleships before the committee on naval affairs; the treaties negotiated at the Hague conference and general arbitration treaties with practically all nations, all of which were ratified. The treaty providing for the control of wireless telegraphy went over until next session, as did also the question of taking some action against President Castro, looking to the collection of American claims against Venezuela. In the House there were extended hearings on resolutions providing for the abolition of the tariff on wood pulp and print paper, which has failed to result in legislative action; also an investigation of charges brought by Representative Lilley of Connecticut, affecting the conduct of members of Congress concerning submarine boat legislation, which inquiry resulted in a severe arraignment of Mr. Lilley himself.

STRIKE IS STILL UNSETTLED

Shurtliff, Chosen as Arbitrator, Refuses to Serve.

CLEVELAND, May 22.—After laboring all day and agreeing upon the one important obstacle which stood between peace and war in the street railway strike situation, the work was all undone late tonight when Glen K. Shurtliff declined to act as a third arbitrator.

One arbitrator to represent the strikers and another to represent the Municipal Traction company had been easily selected last week. Then came the task of deciding upon the third man. Today noon, Mr. Shurtliff was selected, and tonight he declined. The task will be resumed tomorrow morning and in the meantime the strike goes on at least until tomorrow morning.

BURGLARS ENTER SHOE STORE

Cash Register of Gardner Shoe Company Looted.

Burglars entered the J. H. Gardner Shoe company store at 30 North Tejon street some time last night, securing $12 in money from the cash register. Nothing else was taken.

The burglary was discovered by the police at 1:10 o'clock this morning. The thieves had effected entrance by cutting a hole in a panel of a rear door and slipping the lock. The cash register was left in the back room, where it was carried before being looted.

The police are not inclined to believe that the work was done by professionals, although no clues were left. No arrests were made up to the hour of going to press.

GOVERNOR OF NEVADA DEAD

RENO, Nev., May 22.—Governor John Sparks of Nevada died at his home on the Alamo farm near Reno this morning at 8:30 o'clock of Bright's disease. His wife and sons were at his bedside when death came. He was born in Mississippi in August, 1843, and had been governor of Nevada since 1892.

Don S. Dickerson will now become governor of Nevada. He is 34 years of age, and will be the youngest governor this state has ever had.

COAL AND OIL IN WYOMING.

An extended report on the southwestern Wyoming field, by A. C. Veatch of the United States geological survey, prepared especially with reference to the coal and oil, has just been published for free distribution as professional paper No. 56 of the survey.

The area considered comprises the extreme southwestern corner of Wyoming and a small portion of Utah. Mr. Veatch discusses the geology of the region, gives detailed descriptions and sections of the coal beds and analyses of the coals, and presents a history of the development of the oil field, including a list of wells drilled, well sections, and other details. The report contains several excellent maps and other illustrations, one of the maps shows the irrigated and irrigable lands of a part of the region, and a minor section relates to underground water.

The oil of this region is of very high grade and the areas in which it may probably be found are of large extent, as is indicated on the maps accompanying the paper.

It is noted that the government is today the largest owner of lands in this region, in the two most important coal fields, which cover an area of 221,797 acres, the government still holds 106,822 acres, and 76,063 acres were included in the Union Pacific grant.

An innovation at Rochester, N. Y., this summer will be open-air meetings of the St. Andrew's Episcopal church, with the rector and the choir in their usual vestments.

MAY PREVENT MERGER

The defendants in the bill are the New Haven company, the Boston and Maine Railroad company, the Consolidated Railway company and the Providence Securities company.

The complaint says:

"The New Haven company, having prior to the year 1904 acquired practically all the steam railroad facilities for the transportation of passengers and freight between southern and southeastern Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut and between these states and New York city and the south, and completely suppressed all interstate competition in transportation by steam railroad in this territory, did, therefore, in violation of sections 1 and 2 of the act of July 2, 1890, knowingly, unlawfully and wrongfully combine, monopolize and attempt to monopolize certain other steam railroads and electric railways, and did suppress and attempt to suppress all competition between itself and such other steam railroads and electric railways in the transportation of passengers and merchandise."

The declaration is made that the electrical companies were brought under the control and domination of one subsidiary holding company, the Consolidated Railway company. The acquisition of the New York and Stamford railway, under a 99-year lease by the New Haven road in further pursuance of alleged suppression of competition, is also recited.

It is alleged that by the acquisition of these lines the New Haven company "has completely suppressed competition and deprived the public of the advantages thereof, and has established a monopoly so thoroughly and completely as to practically preclude the possibility of competition being hereafter revived and re-established, except by relief from this court."

The attempt to merge the New Haven and Boston and Maine railway systems is then taken up.

argued at length that such a guarantee amounted to an invasion of the right of a state to enforce its own laws in regard to the punishment of persons who commit crimes against a state. In ratifying the treaty, the Senate adopted a resolution declaring that "It is agreed by the United States that no person charged with crime shall be extraditable from Portugal upon whom the death penalty can be inflicted under the laws of the jurisdiction in which the charge is pending."

This will permit the extradition of persons charged with crimes except those involving execution, and the effect will be to make Portugal a refuge for criminals who commit murders in states whose laws prescribe capital punishment.

ONLY SIX SALOONS TO GO

Liquor Interests Comment on Canvass of Local Option Vote.

DENVER, Colo., May 22.—The official canvass of the local option vote at the city election last Tuesday, completed today, is claimed by the liquor interests to show that only six saloons will be abolished as a result of the election. There are 120 saloons in the precincts in which prohibition was an issue. Though the antisaloon forces were victorious in five wards, the territory won by them is mainly outside the district in which saloons had existed.

EIGHT MEN ARE MISSING

CHICAGO, May 22.—Although eight men are believed to have perished in the fire which destroyed the Wintermeyer box factory yesterday, only two bodies had been recovered at midnight, when the search was abandoned until tomorrow. The two bodies have been identified as those of Louis Bender and Joseph Rheman, employed by the Suess Ornamental Glass company, whose plant also was destroyed. Six men in addition have failed to return to their homes since the fire and are not among the injured.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

The Great Restorative

Non-Alcoholic Tonic

of the day, made entirely of native medicinal roots and without a drop of alcohol in its composition.

There are no secrets—all its ingredients being printed on the bottle-wrapper.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" not only builds up the strength of the feeble, debilitated, languid, nervous and easily fatigued, whether young or aged, but it enriches and purifies the blood, thus making the improvement lasting.

It corrects and overcomes indigestion, dyspepsia, biliousness, torpid liver, chronic diarrhea and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Bronchial, throat and laryngeal affections, attended with hoarseness, persistent cough, and all manner of catarrhal affections are cured by the "Golden Medical Discovery."

In Chronic Nasal Catarrh, it is well to cleanse the nasal passages out freely with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" as a constitutional treatment. Old obstinate cases of catarrh yield to this thorough course of treatment.

Through enriching and purifying the blood, the "Discovery" cures scrofulous affections, also blotches, pimples, eruptions, and other ugly affections of the skin. Old, open, running sores, or ulcers, are healed by taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" internally and applying Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve as a local dressing. [illegible] can be had of druggists [illegible] by return mail on receipt of 50 cents in stamps. Address Doctor Pierce as below for it.

In short "Golden Medical Discovery" regulates, purifies and invigorates the whole system and thus cures a very large range of diseases. The reason Why it cures such a varied list of diseases is made clear in a little booklet of extracts from the leading medical authorities, compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and which he will be pleased to send post-paid and entirely free to any who send him their names and addresses.

You can't afford to accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret MEDICINE OF KNOWN COMPOSITION.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." They are the original Little Liver Pills first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They are tiny sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Advisor (1008 pages) is sent FREE on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps (to cover cost of mailing) for paper-bound, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address [illegible] being revived at a time when he could not defend himself.

Reform Measures.

A report unanimously adopted by the conference on church, embodies a lengthy statement setting forth the attitude of the church to the laboring classes. It declares for equal rights and privileges for all people in all stations of life; for the abolition of child labor; for the suppression of sweat shops; for the highest wages employers can possibly afford; for the provision of healthful environment and sanitary arrangements wherever women are employed, and for other things calculated to improve the conditions of people who labor.

The committee on the episcopacy will recommend the election of a missionary bishop for Mexico and in the event of the recommendation being favorably reported upon by the conference, it is looked upon as practically certain that Rev. Dr. John W. Butler, whose mission work in that country has extended over many years, will be elected.

Rev. E. C. Mason's withdrawal from the race for a bishopric has not changed the belief of his followers that they should have a colored bishop and they are reported tonight to have determined to put in nomination tomorrow Missionary Bishop I. B. Scott of Liberia, upon whom they will make every effort to have conferred full episcopal honors.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 22.—Presentation of annual reports of general denominational societies and appointments of committees on matters connected therewith, an address by Col. E. H. Haskell, president of the Baptist Home Mission society, outlining the work and presenting future plans constituted in the main the second days work of the Northern Baptist convention.

Indians in Attendance.

An interesting feature of the day's program was the presentation of several full-blood Indians, including three chiefs who formerly were on the war path, but now converted to the Christian faith. They addressed the convention through an interpreter. All of the tribes in this region are represented and each day some of them participate in the program.

Addresses by missionaries representing the fields in all or the Spanish-speaking countries, told of the marvelous strides that have been made during the last year in Mexico, Cuba and Porto Rico.

The meeting of Chief Left Hand of the Arapahoe tribe, and T. K. Tyson delegate from Michigan, who 44 years ago had led a body of soldiers in a pitched battle against the Indians of this region, commanded by Chief Left Hand, in which many were killed on both sides, was dramatic and when they embraced each other on the platform, the delegates let loose a storm of applause.

Tomorrow will be taken up with the appointment of committees and work by the committee of reference.

NO AGREEMENT AS TO PRICES

So Western Paper Manufacturers Testify Before House Investigating Committee.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—Western manufacturers of news print paper presented their side of the controversy today before the special committee of the House investigating the wood pulp and paper question. A number of these manufacturers were members of the General Paper company, which was dissolved by order of court, and they testified that since that dissolution there had been no agreement among paper makers as to price, division of territory, etc.

Clarence I. McNair, manager of the Northwest Paper company, stated that an omnibus contract had been made with the Scripps McRae league of papers, formerly customers of the General Paper company, in January of this year, for $2.10 per 100 pounds delivered, excepting to the Pacific coast papers, and that the General Paper company was a party to this contract as it had been a party to the old contract. Before the dissolution of the company the price was $1.90 per 100 pounds. All the mills manufacturing news print paper belonging to the General Paper company were parties to the new contract.

The committee adjourned until tomorrow and hopes to conclude by holding a night session.

OLDEST GRADUATES

PRINCETON, N. J., April 30.—If Dr. James Curtis Hepburn of Orange, N. J., attends commencement at Princeton this June, he will celebrate his 76th anniversary of his graduation from college. He received his diploma in 1832, was graduated in medicine at the University of Pennsylvania in 1836 and is Princeton's oldest alumnus. He recently passed his 93rd birthday.

Of the 1,297 men graduated from Princeton university between the years 1877 and 1852, the 30 oldest classes represented by surviving alumni only 151 are still living. The classes of 1838, 1836, 1835, and 1838 have no survivors. Of these 151 graduates only eight are classed in the records as business men. The fact that this proportion is two-thirds less than it should be according to recently published statistics, indicates that the lives of the business men in the 30 classes concerned have been shorter than those of their contemporaries who entered professions.

The statistics referred to show moreover that a larger proportion of modern graduates go into business than into the professions. If this proportion shall remain as it is, or shall increase, and if the mortality of such graduates shall prove to be as high as that of the former generation, the chances for a business man to reach a ripe old age, not to speak of his celebrating the 76th anniversary of his graduation from college, are exceedingly slim.

Ranked by their relative compatibility with longevity, according to the statistics of Princeton classes the [illegible]

EXTRA SESSION OF ASSEMBLY

Philippine Lawmakers Face Unfinished Business—Immediate Independence Desired.

MANILA, May 22.—The statutory time for the adjournment of the Philippine assembly having arrived, with the work of that body incomplete, Governor General Smith has called a month's extra session. Prior to the adjournment of the regular session, the radicals attempted to present a resolution favoring immediate independence, but were headed off by conservatives under the leadership of President Osmena. It is believed that the attempt to present the resolution will be renewed during the extra session.

The Philippine commissioner has rejected the assembly bill providing for the teaching of the various Filipino dialects in the public schools and has substituted a bill creating an institute for the study of the dialects.

Manuel Quescon, a member of the assembly, has been appointed delegate to the navigation congress to be held at St. Petersburg. He will sail tomorrow, accompanied by his secretary, Theodore Rogers.

CITY'S WONDERFUL GROWTH

New York as an Example of the Progress of Our Municipalities.

From the New York World.

New York city passed its two hundred and fiftieth anniversary in 1903. A hundred years ago it had a population of perhaps 90,000. As a consolidated city it is 10 years old today.

Old New York, Brooklyn, Staten Island, Queens county and a part of Westchester were merged on New Years day, 1898, into one city of 3,500,000 souls. The state census of 1905 gave a population of 4,014,304, half of the total for the state, and the figures estimated for 1908 are 4,250,000.

The city's school children of 1898 were 598,233; now they are 620,380. Against a little less than $7,000,000 asked for the schools in 1898 is the 1908 appropriation of more than $21,000,000. The real estate tax valuation for the greater city in 1898 was more than $2,400,000,000; the valuation last July was more than $6,240,000,000.

Within the first six years under consolidation the first step to rapid transit, the key of all great city growth, was taken in the construction of the subway, a $40,000,000 enterprise, in operation since October, 1904. A Brooklyn extension of the subway is ready for opening, a new subway to the Bronx was yesterday approved by the public service commission, two Belmont tunnels to Long Island City are completed, and the date is fixed for running cars between Manhattan and Jersey City under the North river.

Private enterprise, turning to the erection of tremendous office buildings, giant hotels and superb apartment houses which are the marvel of the world's builders, has reconstructed whole blocks of Manhattan since 1898. The skyscraper has been exploited up to the forty-fifth story in the Singer building and the forty-eighth in the Metropolitan Life. The city's skyline would amaze a visitor returning after 10 years. How much more would it astound some spirit coming back to look for familiar haunts of a century ago?

In 1808 one walked Broadway near St. Paul's church to view the comfortable mansions in their shady grounds. A vain little city nestled at the foot of tight little Manhattan island. One heard of Greenwich village, up further on the west side, and of Manhattanville. On the east side were the hamlets which grew into Yorkville and Harlem.

De Witt Clinton had been restored to the mayoralty in 1808. Pierre Cortlandt Van Wyck was recorder, and Garret N. Bleecker was comptroller. It was possible to get to Albany by steamboat in 36 hours. The street-planning commission had laid out its gridiron map as far as the Harlem river, but Thirty-fourth street was still two miles out of town. Lots at Nineteenth and Twentieth streets on Fifth avenue could be leased at $50 a year. The chamber of commerce met in the Merchants Coffee House, at Wall and Water streets. The city hall was five years under way.

Little New York in 1808 measured less than 22 square miles; the area of Greater New York in 1908 is almost 327 square miles. Its area has grown fifteenfold, its population nearly fifty-fold, its wealth by how great a multiple no one can say. And it is still young.

THE INSATIATE PAPER TRUST

From the Philadelphia Record.

It is quite the fashion to belabor the trusts in operations, essays, messages to Congress and newspaper accusation; but there is comparatively small effort to bring the guilty parties to book in the courts or to cut away the pernicious incitement and opportunity for their plundering embodied in protective tariff duties. The trusts are proof against offensive criticism. They go on placidly in their plundering. They can procrastinate for years in the courts, and they take care that nothing shall be done in Congress.

All this is very discouraging to the victims of trust rapacity; but "hope springs eternal in the human breast." On the intimation of Attorney General Bonaparte that he would be pleased to be furnished with evidence of legal combination or conspiracy on the part of the paper trust to increase the price of paper to consumers, Herman Ridder, president of the American Newspaper association, has furnished him with a body of succinct, specific and illuminating evidence of daring and persistent violation of law which must compel action on the part of of the government, if there be any real desire to enforce its provisions.

The $80,000,000 which the paper trust successfully extorts yearly from the consumers of paper in the United States is one of the most odious exactions to which the people are subjected. It is a sin against knowledge. The assault on the pockets of the people is accompanied with a ravage of the forests constituting a robbery of future generations as well as a plunder of the living. It will be interesting to note what the attorney general will do to the paper trust now that he has been fully informed of its predatory activities.

Among the colors which are worn for street and house are all the tones of red, running from ruby to Bernhardt coral, which is a really wonderful shade and is probably one of the loveliest dyes that the manufacturers have produced.

THE TROUBLE IN CLEVELAND.

A MORE or less confused story of riot and violence and destruction of property has been coming from Cleveland for the past week, and no doubt many readers have failed to understand what it was all about. In fact, we are not quite sure that anybody knows, but there are some facts which at least give a preliminary notion of the state of affairs.

As everybody knows, the clever Mayor of Cleveland has been at work for years to municipalize the street railroads of that city. Himself formerly owner of the principal lines, and having made a fortune out of them, he was supposed to know the business from the inside, and when he told the people that the street railroads could be operated at a profit with a three-cent fare, the people believed him, and "Three-cent Tom" Johnson has been elected Mayor twice on that issue.

At the recent election, it was voted to take over the principal lines for the city, and run them by city employes. The great victory for the people was duly celebrated, and it seemed to be the general feeling among the majority of citizens there that the millennium was approaching at a perceptible rate. But right here there was a hitch. The employes of the company got it into their heads that if the railroads were to be run for the benefit of the public, and not to make money, they were an important part of the public, and entitled to share in the proceeds of the popular victory. So they struck for an increase of wages—two cents an hour, we believe, but the exact figure is immaterial for purposes of discussion. Having struck, of course the late employes could not allow the cars to run, and when the officers tried to get out their cars under police protection, it gave an excuse for the strike sympathizers and the lawless elements generally to raise all kinds of Cain—which they have done very successfully.

There is another matter to be taken into consideration when this situation is looked at from the point of view of a sociological student. When it is proposed to municipalize public utilities—and the example of Cleveland is adduced in favor of that plan—there is more to be looked at than the rate of fare. The quality of the service is at least as important. We find that the other night there was a mass-meeting in Cleveland at which different speakers voiced their sentiments very plainly, and they all agreed that the service has been deteriorating. New cars have not been built; old ones are becoming obsolete; the intervals between cars have not been lessened; the cars are so crowded that there is no longer even standing-room in the rush hours. The general sentiment of the meeting was voiced by one speaker who exclaimed, "Raise your fare if you must, but keep up your service." The applause with which this remark was greeted was an indication that not all the Clevelanders regard the three-cent fare as a compensation for all the ills of the service.

This strike is merely incidental, and may be settled any day; but the general problem of the ownership and operation of street cars by the municipality remains, and all the elements of it should be carefully considered in those cities in which there is a movement on foot to make the street car service an affair of the city government. One advantage of our independent government is that these municipal problems can be worked out by individual cities all the rest getting the benefit of the experience of the experimenting municipality; and the outcome of Cleveland's trial of the three-cent street car will be watched with interest all over the country.

HIGH SCHOOL DAY.

MOST of us are praying for rain, but there are many young people this morning who will be very much disappointed unless this shall turn out a fair day. The annual High School day at the college has grown to be a big affair bringing hundreds of young people to town and helping to establish pleasant and close relations between the college and its natural feeders.

To a majority of the students, probably, the athletic contests are the most important part of the proceedings of the day. They are the most spectacular, and altogether more exciting than the prize speaking. It is pleasant to see, however, that the intellectual department is not altogether ignored, and that there will be a speaking contest in the evening, at which young orators from half a dozen institutions will take part.

These High School days have become an institution. Who started the idea in this state we don't know, but several of the colleges now offer inducements to high schools to send representative teams of athletes and speakers to contests. Such a meet was held at Boulder recently, and there are others besides today's. They enable the high school boys to see the different institutions of higher learning, to compare their buildings, surroundings, atmosphere, curriculum, and personnel; and there is no doubt that in many cases the experience gained aids the student materially in making his choice of an alma mater.

Best wishes to the high school boys, and may their day be a success!

It is almost unique in the annals of courts for [illegible] to characterize a plaintiff as Justice O'Gorman characterized Mae Wood in dismissing her complaint. Her prosecution, he said, "impresses the court as a most wicked design to support a false and fictitious claim by forgery and perjury." And she was forthwith placed in the Tombs on a charge of forgery, and spent the night there. It is to be hoped she may take occasion to reflect, and to resolve to mend her ways. The woman seems to be one of the most unscrupulous adventuresses who ever tried to entangle a prominent man and make him pay blackmail. Such women are a blot on society and a disgrace to their sex. It is no excuse for them, either, that so many men are weak and easily-caught, especially as they approach the period of senility. An attempt will doubtless be made by some of the "rob squad" to arouse sympathy for Mae Wood because she is a woman. Such sympathy would be misplaced. Judge O'Gorman was vindicating the honor of the sex when he gave that rebuke.

That three-hundred-and-twenty-acre homestead bill is having a hard time in the Senate. First Senator Heyburn threatens to talk it to death; then, after Idaho has been left out of it in deference to his ugly disposition, comes showers of telegrams from that state beseeching the committee to leave it in. The truth seems to be that Heyburn does not fairly represent the people of his state. It is their own fault, however, for they sent him to Washington, and they must take the consequences of his bull-headedness.

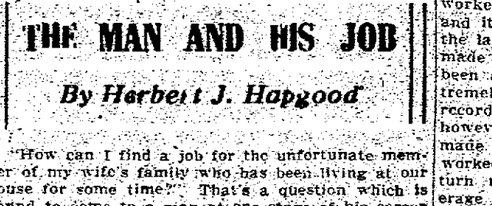

The feeling in favor of having Governor Hughes take another term is growing very strong in New York. It is felt that his work is unfinished, and that he owes it to himself and to the state to go on and finish it. It was at a pecuniary sacrifice, of course, that he took the office, and he has intimated that he could not afford to take it again, but if there is a real demand for his services, he may consider the public good and consent to the higher duty.

The tremendous railway wreck near Antwerp proves at least that this country has no exclusive possession of railway accidents. This one seems to have been worse than any that has occurred in this country for a long time. It must be granted, however, that accidents are more frequent in this country than in Europe, and that the dangers, as well as the speed and comfort, of railway traveling, are greater here than there.

Some how or other, the candidates do not seem to have any difficulty in getting invitations to speak. Taft and Bryan, Hughes and Johnson, occasionally Fairbanks or Knox—all have invitations to make addresses, and the more they expound their views on national affairs, the better their audiences are pleased.

The people of this city have enjoyed an exceptional privilege during the past two weeks in having among them such a man as Dr. Gladden, and having an opportunity to hear him give out the fruitage of his many years of experience, of his ripe thinking and of his hopeful spirit.

It is said that Sir Henry Fowler is the first Methodist to become a peer of Great Britain. Wonder if that is because the Methodists don't take to brewing?

MISGUIDED FRIENDS.

From the Chicago News.

Governor Johnson's home-grown triumph would not have loomed up so large if Mr. Bryan's misguided friends had not made a contest in Minnesota.

THE PEOPLE WITH HUGHES.

From the Boston Herald.

It has been noticeable that wherever there has been any expression of public opinion or any indication of public sentiment, the attitude of Governor Hughes on the race track bill has been indorsed. The silence on the other side has been significant. The legislators have had their warning. If they fail to heed it, they will have to make answer to the people in the coming caucuses and election.

POLITICAL BANKING.

From the Philadelphia Ledger.

The revelations in the Allegheny National bank make all the clearer and more urgent the duty of the state treasurer to put an end unmistakably to the system of political banking, which has wrought so much evil of every kind in Pennsylvania. It is an opportunity that will put his resolute judgment to the test.

A PEACEFUL PEOPLE.

From the New York Times.

The ordinary citizen of this republic, in his daily pursuit of commerce and the peaceful arts, is not warlike, or given to the belief that the army and navy are our only protection. He is not expecting war, but continued peace, and his expectation is likely to be realized. The soldier's thoughts must ever be on warlike things, if he is a good soldier, and it is one of the penalties of his calling that his countrymen are not thinking with him in times of peace.

A HOUSE OF GOVERNORS.

From the New York Tribune.

This significant circumstance should not be overlooked that the suggestion of a house of governors as a further development of our governmental system, which at present is the subject of widespread and largely favorable comment, had its origin, at least in a considerable part, in an exaggerated fear of, or resistance to a supposed tendency toward undue centralization of the government through usurpation of state rights by the federal authorities, and yet it finds its opportunity and obtains by far its most important encouragement in the action of the very administration which has most of all been accused of centralizing tendencies and intentions.

MINNESOTA.

From the Washington Post.

The Bryanites in Minnesota decided not to bolt. They should have decided in the first place not to contest the state with Governor Johnson. He was clearly entitled to the delegation. That he is strong at home has been abundantly demonstrated. His neighbors like him, and he has served them well in their highest office. As his friends wanted this expressed in a formal way at Denver there should have been no objection on anybody's part. The Johnson case at Denver, however, will be examined, not with regard to its local strength, about which there can be no dispute, but with regard to its national strength, which is wholly problematical. It is mere assertion to say that because Governor Johnson has twice carried Minnesota on a local platform for a local office he can carry it on a national platform for President of the United States.

THE WATER SHORTAGE.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

I have read your recent editorials, the regulations of the water commissioners and Open Parliament letters on the water shortage with much interest.

I believe that some of the recent measures of the water commissioners will be more gracefully complied with by the citizens of Colorado Springs if they clearly understand the present water situation and its cause.

In my opinion, the present scarcity of water comes not from any waste of water nor leakage of reservoirs, but simply because the rainfall for the last three months has been far below the seasonal average.

The precipitation for March, April and May (our best months for filling reservoirs) has been about one-half of the usual amount. The normal precipitation for Colorado Springs for these three months from the last 30 years' records is 4.48 inches. Up to this writing, and including the heavy rainstorm of today, we have had only 2.20 inches, or about 50 per cent of the usual amount.

At Glen Eyrie the normal is somewhat more, but their reports show only about 33 per cent of the usual amount.

At Lake Moraine and the summit of Pikes Peak the normal for this period as recorded from a number of years by these stations, is about 9¼ inches, or over twice the normal of Colorado Springs. So far, the reports from these places to us show only about one-half of this amount.

The rain of today amounted to .74 of an inch, but only .25 inches fell at Lake Moraine, so this will be of little help in the present situation.

June, July and August have a heavier precipitation than March, April and May; in fact, the heaviest of any three months in the year, but on the other hand, the evaporation is vastly greater then, so that a smaller proportion reaches the reservoirs from the surrounding mountains, also the amount of water used is largely increased. Should the precipitation of June, July and August be normal, the supply of water would about equal the demand, with none to spare. Should it be less than normal, with little or no reserve in the reservoirs, as at present (which the usual March, April and May precipitation produces), it can be easily understood that a water famine is entirely possible unless some of the present reserve is saved.

Our citizens should in every way possible assist the water commissioner in his efforts to conserve the small supply that we now have on hand. Should the rainfall of the next two months prove more than the average, this economy may not be necessary during the entire summer.

THE MAN AND HIS JOB

By Herbert J. Hapgood

"How can I find a job for the unfortunate member of my wife's family who has been living at our house for some time?" That's a question which is bound to come to a man at one stage of his career or another. If it isn't a member of his wife's family, it's a cousin or an uncle or some one who hasn't any compunction about making petty loans and eating you out of house and home.

"A poor relation," as Charles Lamb puts it, "is the most irrelevant thing in nature—an odious approximation—a haunting conscience,—a preposterous shadow, lengthening in the noon-tide of our prosperity,—an unwelcome remembrance,—a perpetually recurring mortification,—a drain on your purse,—a more intolerable dun upon your pride,—a drawback upon success,—a rebuke to your rising,—an apology to your friends,—the one thing not needful,—the hail in harvest,—the ounce of sour in a pound of sweet."

The best way to get him off your hands is to find the poor fellow something to do. We are willing to carry our share of the burdens that are thrust upon us; but it is only common sense to try to make the burden support itself. By so doing you are making the man self-reliant and independent and you help him more than all the charity in the world.

In the first place, study the man and endeavor to determine the best thing for which he is fitted. You can do this better than he can. Then keep your eyes open down town for an opening which he would be qualified to fill. Do not "speak for him;" it is far better to let him go and apply for the position himself. Employers were never more adverse to hiring their friends' favorites, and "pull" counts little or nothing.

If you fail to hear of anything in this way advertise in the papers; but bear in mind that money spent for advertising must be spent judiciously.

Furthermore get your man to watch the help wanted columns as an eagle watches his prey. Be sure he follows up every clew. See that his letters of application are the best possible and that his personal apearance is neat and unassuming.

Above all else, don't let him get discouraged. Keep up his spirits, for a man who is down in the mouth stands little show of catching on.

COAL PRICES AND LABOR CONDITIONS

From article by E. W. Parker in Mines and Minerals for May.

Under the conditions which have existed since the period of industrial prosperity set in, in 1896, it is but natural that there should be an advance in the price of coal. With regard to anthracite it must be remembered that with the advances in sympathy with the general tendency toward higher prices, there is the additional fact that the bonanza beds have been practically exhausted, and the mining of the deeper and thinner beds increases the cost, which must be made up, as I have stated, by higher prices. In the bituminous districts there have been advancing rates of wages, due largely to the scarcity of labor in the coal mining regions. As far as I have observed, a large part of this scarcity of labor has been due to the irregular and uncertain of the work and the small number of days that the men were able to work during a week, for which condition the scarcity of the car supply is responsible. It is unnecessary to state that coal mining is an exacting form of labor, and though the rates of wages during the last few years have been higher than formerly, the fact is that in many cases the men have not been able to work more than three or four days in the week, and the amount earned has not been such as to make coal mining an inviting field of employment, particularly when there has been such an active demand and steady employment for labor in other fields of work. During the last three years the average time made in the bituminous coal mines of the United States has been as follows:

In 1904, 202 days; in 1905, 211 days; and in 1906, 213 days; whereas in the five years prior to 1904 the average working days were as follows:

In 1899, 234 days; in 1900, 234 days; 1901, 255 days; 1902, 230; 1903, 255; and in the years preceding the period of depression, which included from 1893 to 1896, inclusive, the average days worked were:

In 1890, 222 days; in 1891, 223 days; and 1892, 219 days. These figures relate to the days during which the mines were operated. The time actually made by the men has in many instances been much less than this.

During the period of industrial depression, from 1893 to 1897, the average time made by the bituminous mine workers ranged from 171 to 196 days, and it appears from this that during the last three years the average time made by the coal mine workers has been about midway between the extremely high and the extremely low records. It is interesting to note, however, that in the average tonnage made by each man for each day worked, 1904, 1905 and 1906 were in turn record-breaking years, the average production per day per man being respectively, in 1904, 3.15 tons; in 1905, 3.24 tons, and in 1906, 3.36 tons. The highest record made previous to these years was in 1903, when the average daily tonnage per man was 3.09 tons. Part of this increased efficiency in productive capacity has been due to the increased use of machines for undercutting coal, and part of it also has probably been due to the desire of the men to make a greater tonnage per day, when the number of days they were permitted to work was reduced.

The advancing tendency in the price of coal during the last few years has been due to several causes. One, of course, is the higher price of labor, but added to this has been the development of new mining districts which have rendered necessary the spreading out, even more thinly, of the already thin car supply, which has necessitated a reduction in the output of a number of individual mines, although the total output increased, and it is a self-evident proposition that with decreased tonnage the expense of production increases.

ORANGE TREE MOVES NORTH

From the June Technical World.

Botanists in the employ of the United States department of agriculture hope to bring into being an orange tree which will be as sturdy as the apple tree, an orange tree that will not perish in the chill of northern winter, which in December will bear its wreaths of snow and in May its garlands of bloom, and when summer comes will yield fruit as good as that sweetened in the south sun.

This may seem to be an unnatural proposition, but it only seems so. No violence upon the laws of nature has been or will be attempted. It is simply an effort to make the citrus tree which bears the sweet, table orange as hardy and insensitive to cold as the citrus tree which bears an uneible orange. By crossing a citrus tree which grows in the north and which bears an uneible fruit with the citrus tree of the south it is sought to beget a plant in which will be combined the good traits of each.

Government botanists are confident that the results of this citrus marriage will be a scion that will grow and fruit at a latitude midway between the northern limits of the sweet and the bitter orange. If this should be there might be orange groves in central Virginia, middle Kentucky, southern Indiana, southern Illinois, central Missouri and central Kansas. Think of orange groves around the homes in Richmond, Louisville, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Kansas City!

LANDED ON HIS HEAD.

From the New York World.

Mrs. Margaret Hoyt, good looking and athletic, of 217 Thomas street, Newark, had about "everything," as they say of winning baseball pitchers, when she entered Frank S. Moffatt's butcher and green grocery at 61 Pennsylvania avenue yesterday afternoon and appointed him a committee of one to receive her offering in the vegetable and meat line.

"You will send me sweet potatoes for parsnips, will you?" shouted Mrs. Hoyt, taking up her position in the open doorway.

I must have made a mistake, but—"

Bang! Biff! Swat! Thud. A shower of the vegetables landed on the unfortunate butcher's head and shut off the apology he was trying to make.

"Made a mistake, eh!" hissed the irate woman as she selected a plump tuber and planted it on Moffat's chest.

There was plenty other material handy when the potatoes ran out, and the finish of the unequal contest found Moffat side-stepping frankfurters, pork chops and juicy handfuls of hamburger steak. As a fitting exhibition of her marksmanship Mrs. Hoyt encircled Moffat's neck with a huge bologna. When she withdrew he removed the meat scraps from his hair and hurried to the First Criminal court. Judge Howell heard his story and decided that a warrant for assault would just about fit Mrs. Hoyt. She will be given a chance to explain today.

This is not the first time Mrs. Hoyt has publicly demonstrated that she possesses a temper. On the night of March 6 last she found her husband, from whom she had been separated for some time, dining in a Broad street hotel with two Perth Amboy officials. She beat him on the head with an umbrella until she twisted the steel rod out of shape. She was arrested, but her husband did not appear against her.

BRONZE IMAGE SMOKED.

From the New York World.

"Sivera," a West Indian negro who has been doing duty as a bronze image at the home of Dr. D. C. White, 253 West Forty-fourth street, has flung up the job and vanished, and now the doctor is wondering where he can get a piece of real statuary cheap to take the place of the evanescent young man from Barbados.

Some time ago, Dr. White, while on a cruise in the Caribbean, saw Sivera and was struck by his remarkable similarity in figure and skin to a famous bronze image in the Metropolitan museum. It struck the physician it would be a novel idea to import the darky as a work of art and pose him in the hallway of his house.

The plan worked well for a while and the doctor's visitors passed many compliments on the gracefully dressed statue. The image when not at show brushed his master's clothes, shined his shoes and waited on the table.

By and by the image took to smoking cigarettes and fell into other inartistic ways. There was a howl of dismay from the whole assemblage of whites when the bronze image used the family bathtub. Finally forbearance ceased to be a virtue when the bronze image asked Dr. White for the loan of his dress suit to get married in. So the image was set outside the premises and told to stay there.

SIMPLE LIFE FOR ROYALTY.

How Late King Oscar of Sweden Spent His Days.

From the London Truth.

King Oscar of Sweden got up between 8 and half-past 8, dressing with the help of a valet. He took coffee in the breakfast room together with the queen, with whom he settled any family matters, and read the morning papers. By 10 o'clock the king was ready for business. On Tuesday he held an open reception. On Monday the court, official, military and civil dignitaries had the pas. The king devoted Wednesday and Thursday to reviews and military inspections, but particularly to audiences and presentations of persons promoted to offices or honors. On Friday the Swedish council of state took place. Saturday was formerly devoted to Norway and to the Swedish-Norwegian council of state.

At half-past 2 the royal pair took luncheon, consisting of a cup of soup, a warm or cold course, a glass of ale, or a glass of Marsala. After that the king walked out or rode in the modern manege in the new royal stables, then to business, correspondence, etc., in his study. At 6 o'clock the king, queen and persons in attendance dined in the blue drawing room. The sort of dinner most often served was soup, fish, greens, a steak and dessert, with three sorts of wine. On feast and parade days an entremets was added and a glass of champagne. It often happened, however, that the king, with his simple taste, preferred for himself two cold courses or a vegetable and meat, leaving everything else untouched. After dinner the king was wont to attend the theaters or Free Masons lodges or else he stopped at home and listened to music by the queen or the ladies in attendance. Supper was soon over; it usually consisted merely of a cup of soup. The king then retired to his study, signing incoming papers, and seldom going to bed before 1 o'clock.

GOV. WARFIELD HERE

SAYS SPRINGS BANKS ARE AMONG THE BEST.

Is Ardent Supporter and Admirer of Johnson of Minnesota for Presidency.

Former Governor Edwin Warfield of Maryland, who is president of the Fidelity and Deposit company of Maryland, which carries the major part of the bond of $8,000,000 for the Stratton estate executors, is a visitor in Colorado Springs with W. G. Maitland of Denver, western representative for the company on a combined pleasure and business trip. Governor Warfield is one of the best known of eastern capitalists among the financial men of this city.

One of the objects of his visit here is to meet Mrs. Warfield who has been on a visit to the Pacific coast and who will be in Colorado Springs this week. In the meantime Mr. Warfield will devote considerable of his time to the large financial interests of his company in this city.

"I am very favorably impressed with the financial conditions in Colorado Springs and, in fact, with the entire state," said Governor Warfield last night. "It seems to me that this city has proved its financial solidity in a remarkable way in the last eight months and your banks I think are as solid as any in the United States. The recent panic experienced in the east does not seem to have affected Colorado Springs in the least."

Boosts for Johnson.

In the political world Governor Warfield expressed himself as quite an ardent supporter and admirer of Governor Johnson of Minnesota.

"I have voted twice for Mr. Bryan," he said, "and I suppose that he will be given the nomination again, but I think there are a great many who do not realize what a large man Governor Johnson is and what a strong run he would make for the presidency. He is a man of immense reserve strength and fully capable of assuming the highest office in the gift of the people. Of the entire population of the United States, about half is composed of descendants of the original stock of about 3,500,000 that comprised the population at the close of the Revolutionary war, and the other half is of foreign-born people who have emigrated to this country since. All of our presidents so far have belonged to the former class, and Governor Johnson belongs to the latter. His election would be the fulfillment of our implied pledge to the world that the highest office in the nation might be captured by descendants of foreign-born people. In every state in the Union he would naturally draw a large portion of that admirable class of our population and hence I think that his true strength is greatly underestimated. Above all he is a large man and fully up to the standard of our past presidents in every respect. He is a thoroughly typical American of the best class and needs only the opportunity to show himself the equal of other men who have occupied the presidential chair."

Governor Warfield is a close friend of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hayes and he and Mrs. Warfield will be entertained by them during their stay in this city.

LESSEN FIRE DANGER

NEW PRECAUTIONS ARE IMPROVING CONDITIONS HERE.

Dean Schedule of Insurance Rates Results in Beneficial Changes—L. P. Terhune Conducts Campaign.

With the adoption of what is known as the Dean schedule of fire insurance rates one month ago in this city by the local organization of underwriters, there has come a general improvement in the conditions that bids fair to continue indefinitely and eventually place Colorado Springs among the favored cities of the country, so far as fire insurance risks apply.

Since the adoption of the new schedule, a campaign of education has been conducted here under the direction of L. P. Terhune, representing the Rocky Mountain Fire Underwriters association, of Denver. The first impression gained by those having fire risks was that the rates would be raised. With the adoption of the requirements for protection provided in the new schedule, the contrary has been true. Where proper fire precautions have been installed, the rate has not only been lowered, but the general average of the city as a fire risk has been raised.

Mr. Terhune ascribes defective electric wiring and the accumulation of trash as the greatest menaces to the buildings of the business districts. These two causes have been the chief factors in keeping the rates higher than would be the case if they did not furnish extra fire hazard. During the month that has elapsed since the adoption of the new schedule, there has been a general movement toward bettering conditions, many of the principal business blocks of the city having complied with the recommendations. What is known as the outside mercantile district has been improved so generally that the average rate for fire protection has been greatly reduced.

People generally are learning of the advantage of taking preventive measures against fires. Mr. Terhune has been in the city for a month for no other purpose than to give information relative to the new schedule. He will be here only a few weeks longer, during which time those interested in fire insurance will have opportunity of consulting with him on the subject.

YEOMANS IS PRESIDENT

RE-ELECTED HEAD OF SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

Other Officers Are Chosen at Closing Meeting of Enthusiastic Conference.

Great enthusiasm and strong financial support marked the closing sessions of the annual meeting of the El Paso County Sunday School association at the First Methodist church yesterday afternoon. The convention was the most largely attended and interesting of any in years and the delegates feel gratified at the enthusiasm displayed for Sunday school work.

Officers for the year were elected as follows:

President, A. J. Yeomans, Colorado Springs.

Vice president, Charles Meador, Manitou.

Vice president, H. B. Rice, Calhan.

Secretary, H. E. Delano, Colorado Springs.

Treasurer, J. A. Van Eaton, Colorado Springs.

Superintendent of messengers, V. A. Slaughter, Colorado Springs.

The offices of primary and normal superintendents were left vacant to be filled later by appointment of the executive committee.

The re-elected president, Mr. Yeomans, was chosen delegate from this county to the International Sunday school convention which meets at Louisville, Ky., June 17 next.

The program announced for the day was carried out in its entirety with the exception of the address by Mr. Carmen, who withdrew owing to the lack of time. Features of the program were the addresses of the Rev. Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston and Dr. J. R. Robinson.

TWO INTERESTING SERMONS

Dr. Johnston Will Tell of Experiences in India.

The Rev. Howard Agnew Johnston, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will preach tomorrow morning on "Secrets of Power," and in the evening he will give a detailed account of an interesting conversation he held with Hindu students in India.

When Dr. Johnston was in India, he was asked by the students in the college at Allahabad to give them an opportunity to ask some questions. He gladly assented. One of the first questions was this: "Why is it that men who come to India tell us that the life of India is the result of Hinduism, and that the life of England and America is the result of Christianity but when they do this, they always speak of the worst things in India as the results of Hinduism and the best things in England and America as the results of Christianity. Why do they not speak of the best things in India as the results of Hinduism and the worst things in England and America as the results of Christianity?" They then mentioned the political corruption in England a century ago, and the awful drunkenness that prevailed there, saying that they had read this in English history. Then they referred to Tammany Hall in New York, and the Republican gang in Philadelphia which is even worse, and to the commercial dishonesty in Christian countries, insisting that these were the results of Christianity just as much as the bad things in India are the results of Hinduism.

Dr. Johnston will state in detail tomorrow night how he answered these young Hindu students.

MRS. H. C. MORSE IS DEAD

Former Springs Woman Dies in California.

Word was received yesterday by friends in this city of the death in Santa Ana, California, on Friday, May 15, of Mrs. H. C. Morse, formerly of this city. Mrs. Morse, who was an aged lady, had been ill only a short time with an attack of la grippe, and her death comes as a shock to her large circle of friends in this city. The funeral was held last Sunday, interment being at Santa Ana.

Mrs. Morse is survived by her husband, formerly a well-known mining man in this city, three sons and a daughter, Mrs. George H. Randall, all of whom now live at Santa Ana. The family left Colorado Springs about seven years ago.

At a special meeting held last night at Robbins hall, the new council of the Daughters of America, the auxiliary to the Jr. O. U. A. M., was organized with a charter membership of 50. It was decided to name the new order Mayflower council. The number will be received with the charter within a few days. The first business meeting will be held on Monday, June 1, at which time officers will be elected and the council formally installed.

BIG OIL YIELD IN UTAH

Springs Capitalists Have Option on 30,000 Acres in New Field.

Reports from the newly-discovered oil field of Bluff, in eastern Utah, are that the first oil well opened and operated is now yielding between 600 and 700 barrels of oil per day, through pumping.

This is of interest in Colorado Springs, as a number of local capitalists are preparing to sink wells in the territory close to the big producer. Yates and McLain have options on 30,000 acres of land in the new field and are preparing to ship machinery for boring from Florence. A number of well-known men of the city are interested with them in the project, and it is expected that if other good wells are opened there will be a rush to the district.

ZEBBITES ARE EXCITED

TRINIDAD'S INVASION AROUSES GREAT ENTHUSIASM.

Critical Series in State League Begins Today at Roswell: President Runyon Here.

Manager Ed Wooster and the Trinidad baseball team arrived in the city last evening and are stopping at the Alamo hotel. Only five or six enthusiastic fans accompanied the team, the remainder of the southern aggregation being due to get in this morning. Trinidad will be depopulated for two days, with the exception of those who are too sick to travel. Should the team lose both games to the Zebs every player's name will be stricken from the Trinidad city directory.

"Doc" Graves, business manager of the local team, came in from Roswell park last evening after the rain and reported that there was not a sign of water on the diamond, the new arrangement by which the infield is drained as fast as it becomes wet having proved a success. The advance sale of tickets at Pettingell's cigar stand has been gratifying to the management and shows that the Zebbites are going to be on hand in full force.

Nash and Ackley Pitch.

Webster announced that Nash will be the slab artist for the Coal Diggers today, while Ackley will bend them across the pan for the Colorado Springs team. Neither man has lost a game this season and the winner of today's contest will lead the league in the number of games won. The game this afternoon will be the real contest of the season, as it is the test of strength between two recognized leaders. The visitors know that in the Zebs they are meeting the fastest bunch in the league, and will put forth their best efforts to win.

President Alfred Damon Runyon of the State association arrived here last night to see that things are done right today. He would not miss either of the games, and will be on hand as a much excited but exceedingly impartial rooter, both today and tomorrow. Frank Selee is also in town and will be the guest of the local management at Roswell park today. A meeting of the league is to be held here tomorrow evening for further consideration of the schedule.

The game will be called promptly at 3:30 o'clock and the teams will bat in the following order:

BIG SCHOLASTIC MEET

TWELVE HIGH SCHOOLS TO COMPETE HERE TODAY.

One Hundred and Twenty Star Athletes to Figure in Fast Contests on Washburn Field.

One hundred and twenty athletes from 12 of the leading high schools in the state will compete today on Washburn field for honors in track and field, in the annual Colorado College interscholastic track and field meet. With the exception of the East Denver team, all the fastest athletes in the state will be in the various events. On a fast track and under favorable weather conditions, several records should go by the boards, as many of these athletes are the same who won their events and figured in the record-smashing carnival at Boulder last Saturday.

From the list of entries, as announced last night by Professor H. F. Smith, chairman of the committee in charge of the big meet, it is evident that it will be a close fight for honors. Hardly any of the schools are out of the running, but the fight for first place will be between Longmont, if its four star athletes appear today; Manual Training, Pueblo Central and Colorado Springs High schools. Scruby, McFadden, Gregg and Armstrong are entered from Longmont High, but their entries in the individual events were not received.

Special Relay Race.

A feature of the meet will be the special relay race between Colorado Springs and North Denver High schools. These two teams tied for first place in the meet last year and it was decided that the cup should go to the team winning the relay this year.

The preliminary heats in the dashes and hurdles, as well as in the field events will start at 11 o'clock this morning, while the meet proper will begin at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Following is the official list of entries:

CITY LEAGUE BASEBALL.

Games Scheduled at Boulevard Park and Manitou.

On the City League schedule tomorrow are two games which promise to develop some close baseball playing. At Boulevard park at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, the Pikes Peak team plays the Yeomen, while on the Manitou field, the Sunshiners meet the Cave of the Winds nine. The games are in the championship series for The Gazette pennant.

The protest made by the Pikes Peak team against the Sunshiners last Sunday was not upheld, and the game goes to the latter on the basis of the score. The Pikes Peaks had declared that their opponents used unauthorized substitutes.

FISHING ALLOWED ON MAY 30

State Game Warden Lifts Ban and Brings Joy to Sportsmen. Special Excursion.

The ban has been lifted and word has gone from the office of the state game and fish warden in Denver that fishing will be allowed on Memorial day and the Sunday following, thus allowing fishermen the opportunity to make use of the holiday, although the law sets June 1 as the date for the opening of the fishing season. For that reason the anxiety in the minds of the anglers is relieved and the burnishing of rod and reel will occupy much of the attention of business men this next week.

That local sportsmen may make the best of this opportunity, it was announced last night by N. L. Drew, city ticket agent for the Colorado Midland, that this road will run a special car for fishermen as far as Salina. The car will leave here next Friday evening at 10 o'clock and will remain at Salina over Sunday, returning at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. A one-fare rate has been put in force for the trip.

GORKY'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY.

A number of sketches of the life of Maxim Gorky have recently been published in Europe, and as no two of these agreed in many important respects the Paris "Gil Blas" asked the Russian to make a statement by which the discrepancies might be "truthfully adjusted." In reply Gorky wrote this "autobiography."

"1878—Shoemaker's apprentice.

"1879—Patternmaker's apprentice.

"1880—Helper in a steamship kitchen.

"1884—Porter.

"1885—Baker.

"1886—Chorus singer in an itinerant opera company.

"1887—Street vender.

"1888—Seriously contemplated suicide.

"1890—Clerk in a lawyer's office.

"1891—Made trip through Russia on foot.

"1892—Published first novel—beginning of career."

DECISIVE COLLEGE BALL GAME

Miners Meet Aggies at Fort Collins. Tigers Will Play at Boulder Today.

At Fort Collins today the Colorado state intercollegiate baseball championship will be decided when the Miners and Aggies meet in the decisive struggle. The Miners have already defeated the Aggies in the first game by a score of 7 to 1, but it is by no means certain that they will win today's contest. Victory for the Farmers today, if followed by a second victory over the Tigers next week, would only tie them for first with the Mines, while a victory for the Golden boys this afternoon gives them a clear title to the championship banner.

In the meantime the Colorado College Tigers meet the University of Colorado team at Boulder. The easy victory of Falk's men in the opening game with the Boulderites augurs another victory today. Boulder has shown poor form all season and the locals are not looking for a reversal. Victory today and against the Aggies here on Memorial day will keep the Tigers in the running for second place.

EXPLAINING THE HUGE HAT

From Harper's Bazar.

The plain, rather dark colored suit was in vogue this winter, the modish kilt skirt and severe three-quarter coat. Obviously, something had to be introduced to soften the hard lines of this costume, and the hat was the only medium. The straight-cut suit gave a perpendicular line, to eliminate which a horizontal one was required, hence the wide hat, and this, by contrast with the rigidity of the suit, had to be ornamented with trimming in broken lines, so we had endless irregular loops and all kinds of fantastic feathers. Of course, then, when the hat trimming was regular and "set" the purpose of this style of hat was defeated.

Nobody is so much alive as the dead is.

NEWS OF THE LOCAL COURTS

After nearly 25 years of married life, Ellen Wilks yesterday filed suit in the district court for divorce from James J. Wilks. The plaintiff claims that her husband swore at her and abused her and threatened physical violence. She requests $1,000 alimony and an order restraining Wilks from interfering with her. The couple were married in Montreal, Canada, August 28, 1883.

D. K. Bean and Elizabeth Dodd were found guilty of a statutory offense by a jury in the district court yesterday and were sentenced by Judge James Owen to serve 40 days each in the county jail.

Francis S. Kavanaugh of Chicago has requested the police department of this city to assist him in locating his brother, Edward E. Kavanaugh, who is thought to be in Colorado Springs. The missing man is 25 years old, weights 190 pounds and is five feet nine inches tall.

FRATERNAL DAY AT FAIR

Attractive Prizes Offered for Best Drill Work.

The management of the Colorado State fair in Pueblo has set aside September 15 as Fraternal day. It is the intention to have as many lodges as possible front all over the state, particularly drill teams, attend.

Large prizes will be offered for the best drill team from each of the other of $150 will be awarded to the best drill team of 16 members and captain, from any fraternal lodge or order in Colorado. A purse of $50 will go to the best drill team from each of the other organizations, including the Woodmen of the World, Modern Woodmen of America, Knights of Pythias, Odd Fellows, Maccabees and Yeomen. Special prizes will be offered to other lodges desiring to compete.

Calculated to stimulate great interest in fraternal circles in the state is the offer of the management to give $300 for the order having the greatest number of members in line on Fraternal day, $150 for the next best represented lodge and $100 for the third. The various cash prizes will aggregate more than $1,000.

Elaborately decorated headquarters will be provided for each of the principal orders, in which a committee of Pueblo members of each respective order will extend all possible courtesy to the visitors.

CARD OF THANKS.

Dr. Estill and family desire to extend their thanks to the numerous friends who so lovingly bestowed so many favors and manifested so much kindness and sympathy during the sicknes and death of our devoted wife and mother.

Be assured these favors are duly appreciated.

Very respectfully,

REFUSES VANDERBILT'S TIP.

From the New York World.

At the intermission of a matinee of a burlesque of "The Merry Widow" recently, at Weber's theater, William K. Vanderbilt fumbled with a carriage check in his pocket. A 10-cent piece slipped to the floor and an usher picked it up and tendered it to the millionaire.

"This is yours, sir, I believe," he said politely.

"Oh, keep it yourself," responded the magnate.

"No, you keep it," insisted the usher. Mr. Vanderbilt smilingly pocketed the coin.

"Say, do you know who that was?" asked a man leaning on a radiator.

"Sure, he was a customer of the house," replied the usher.

"He was William K. Vanderbilt, who has more millions than you've got dimes."

And that was where the usher fainted—almost.

PARROT GUEST OF HONOR.

From the New York American.

There was a remarkable anniversary celebration yesterday at the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Orphan asylum, One Hundred and Fiftieth street and Broadway. It was a thirtieth anniversary and that alone in an orphan asylum is remarkable, but the celebration was in honor of a rare bird. Polly, the asylum's parrot, came to the institution just 30 years ago yesterday. It is said that Polly was 50 years old when he arrived, and certainly the memory of the "oldest inhabitant" of the institution runneth not to the contrary. In fact, there is nobody connected with the asylum now who can recall the day of Polly's advent.

Polly is an apostle of speed. "Hurry up" is his slogan. When the telephone rings Polly calls "Hurry up." When the children are formed in line for the various exercises Polly for 30 years has spurred them on with his inevitable "Hurry up."

He graciously received an American reporter yesterday and was interviewed. Asked what he thought of Theodore Roosevelt he cried out "Hurry up."

Polly shows signs of age. The green plumage of his breast has worn down to pin feathers. He was the observed of all observers at the asylum yesterday, and received congratulations with an injunction to "Hurry up."

The tradition is that Polly was a gift to the asylum from a prominent family of this city.

Immanuel church, at Bellows Falls, Vt., is believed to have the oldest ladies' society of the Episcopal church in this country, it having recently celebrated its seventy-fifth anniversary.

Among the June Magazines

Everybody's.

Lincoln Steffens heads the list of contributors to the Fifth Anniversary number of Everybody's with a powerful exposition of the views of President Roosevelt, Secretary Taft, and Senator La Follette, upon "What the Matter is in America, and What to do About It." He has put a lot of leading questions to these men, and their answers are wonderfully instructive. The article has been illustrated by remarkable photographs, taken specially for the magazine. There is also an article by Charles Edward Russel, "A Burglar in the Making," which brings to light some of the horrors perpetrated in the convict camps of Georgia. Hamlin Garland carries his psychic experiments into wider and more varied fields. And life from the standpoint of the speculator's wife is analyzed in an unusual piece of work, "Wives of the Pseudo-Rich," by One of Them. Zane Grey describes, in an article splendidly illustrated, the excitement of "Lassoing Lions in the Siwash."

O. Henry and Samuel G. Blythe supply the humor. The former has a breezy, delightful tale, "The Rose of Dixie," and Mr. Blythe says what he thinks about "Berlin and Its Burghers," in his own inimitable way. Harrison Rhodes tells a society story in "The Way to Mrs. Morpont's," James Hopper contributes a fine Philippine story, "Kling," and Michael Williams holds one breathless with the "The Avenger." Edwilda Nordahl's pretty, homely love-story "A Lowly Diplomat," and "Little Stories of Real Life," by Bessie R. Hoover and May Isabel Fish, complete the list.

Poetry is represented by Arthur Stringer's "Habit," Charles Ruston Going's "A Hidden Threshold" and Herbert Kaufman's "Make Good." And Wallace Irwin has some humorous verses, appropriately illustrated. Indeed, the illustrations throughout are notable; two stories are illustrated in color, and Vernon Howe Bailey contributes a set of pencil drawings of Colorado including two Colorado Springs views that are thoroughly original and artistic.

J. B. Kerfoot ("Johan Barrett") writes the book reviews, and in "The Players" is to be found a discussion of the latest dramatic performances, with particular stress upon Charles Rann Kennedy's "The Servant in the House." "The Chestnut Tree" and "Publisers'" column are continued as usual.

Appleton's Magazine.

As you turn the pages of this month's Appleton's you will come first to an editorial entitled "Do Your Own Thinking," a worthy injunction and an interesting presentation on the subject. It is also interesting to see how closely it connects with the contents and the readers of the magazine. The articles throughout are written by men and women who think for themselves, for readers who think for themselves, and the subjects are those upon which people are thinking or ought to be thinking now, all with special regard to interest as well as importance. John T. McCutcheon writes and cartoons "Graduation Day" and its output of thought, in his inimitable way. "How the Newspapers Handle National Conventions," by Trumbull White, is the inside story of one phase of the universal subject of the moment. "The Price Women Pay for Liberty," by Lucy M. Saunders, is a discussion of the shifting standards of formal politeness which seem to accompany the more recent activities of women. "My Faith," by Dr. Howard A. Kelly, of Johns Hopkins university, is a significant affirmation by one of the great scientists of the world who finds his religion and his science in entire harmony. "The New Winning of the West," by George C. Lawrence, is the story of the newest transcontinental railway, an example of independent thinking if there ever was one. "The First Twentieth-Century Revolution," by Kerchaval Wolff, tells of the new corporation ideals that are being voiced and applied by our most efficient leaders in great business affairs. "Across Europe by Motor Boat," in its second installment, carries the author, Dr. Henry C. Rowland, from Ramsgate to Paris, and keeps him thinking all the way. Eight fiction features divide the interest with the eight articles already meant. Joseph C. Lincoln, author of "Cap'n Eri," begins a new serial of Cape Cod life under the title of "Cy Whittaker's Place," as full of humor, charm, and truth as any reader could wish, and illustrated appreciatively by Wallace Morgan. Two other serials continue, and five short stories complete the fiction list with Molly Elliot Seawell, Hugh Pendexter, [illegible] Emerson Browne, H. C. [illegible], Gray Oliver, John Oxenham, and McCann [illegible] in the list. [illegible] Amalgamated Revolutionists and How They Took New York," in his best vein. Altogether, you will find Appleton's worth your thought, though you may, if you choose, stop with thinking how cheerful, interesting, and alive it is while you read it.

The New Tropical Magazine.

Tropical and Sub-Tropical America, the new monthly illustrated magazine, dealing with all phases of tropical and sub-tropical life in America, announces that it will hereafter be under the editorial direction of Mr. Marrion Wilcox, the eminent traveller and historian. Mr. G. M. L. Brown, the founder of the magazine, takes the position of managing editor.

The leading article in the May issue is an interesting description of the palms of America, beautifully illustrated by photographic reproductions. In a short separate article following this is an account of that remarkable tree, the Talipot palm, which flowers but once and then dies. Both articles are by A. Hyatt Verrill, the well-known West India traveller and naturalist.

The June Metropolitan.

Every one is interested just now in the two big national conventions to be held in Chicago and Denver. This interest is natural when the selection of presidential candidates is fraught with so much importance to the country. It is prophesied that the two conventions will be the most sensational since 1860. The Metropolitan magazine publishes an article on "The National Conventions and the Country," by Charles Wadsworth Camp relating entertaining and dramatic incidents of these of the past from which inferences of those about to be held may be drawn, and reviewing the situation as it appears on the eve of the conventions. Another important article in this number is "What Christian Science Claims," by the Rev. Irving C. Tomlinson, M. A., secretary to Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy. Under the title of "Jefferson Davis at West Point," Prof. Walter L. Fleming, of the Louisiana State university, tells for the first time the fascinating story of the youth of the president of the confederacy, and throws interesting sidelights on the beginnings of West Point. Eustace Miles, the English tennis champion writes of "How to Keep in Good Condition Without Exercise," and "The Story of the Knickerbocker Trust Company," and how it was rehabilitated after the largest banking failure in America, is told by Jackson Cross. C. Alfonso Zelaya, a son of President Zelaya, writes of his father and affairs in Central America. The fiction in this number is of exception quality, including "The Mayor's Dovecote," by A. T. Quiller-Couch; "A Test of Loyalty," by Herbert R. Sass; "Hammersley's Pluck," by Philip S. Hichborn; "A White Night in Africa," by Clover Leist, and "The Mystery of a Studio," by Sadie Preston.

The Century.

The June Century will be timely in a double way: first with regard to political personages, and secondly with regard to school and college life. In the former class come the articles on "Lincoln's Vote for Vice President," the article on General Grant by Dr. Shrady, "England's Last Royal Political Boss," a story of an American boss, "The Hill of Thorns," by Adele Marie Shaw, and an editorial on the need of making careful selection of the candidates for vice president. Appealing to the school audience are a story by Herbert D. Ward, "The Last Class Supper"; "Old College Songs" (Harvard, Yale and Princeton), by John Wolcott Adams, and "Humor in School," an entertaining record by Agnes Deane Cameron. "The Future President," a humorous story by Owen Johnson, falls in both categories.

Young's Magazine.

Fiction that strikes the human note is what Young's Magazine aims to offer its readers. The June issue, with a novelette and twenty short stories, is an especially "human" number, without a "sawdust story" in its pages. The novelette, by Aubrey Lanston, "The Intrusion of Pamela," is a passionate, appealing story, exquisite as a pastel etching, whose heroine, a lovely, flower-like beauty of smart London society, is leading a remarkable dual life. When she is suddenly revealed as a "scarlet woman," the clever young diplomat who loves her refuses to believe and urges her to marry him. So skillfully is the tense situation handled that there is no "bad taste" left, and the delightful denouement is absolutely unforeseen. A startlingly vivid, colorful romance of a countess and a newspaper man who meet in the dense blackness of a "black scene" in a theater is "Relkis," by Alice Leal Pollock. "Will's Wife," by H. Leto, is a pitiless picture of a pretty, shallow, inane wife of a homely, cowardly, pitiful husband and a handsome, cheap Lothario—a story of bitter realism and intense interest. "La Femme a la Mode" is a gay, little tale of an ultra modern girl, and "By Proxy," by Inez G. Thompson, is a whimsical, sparkling love story of a thief in the night. "The Strategist" is good, chuckling comedy, and the three translations in the number have the subtle note of French fiction that tears the veneer from souls almost gayly. There is witty philosophy on spring time fancies in "At the Sign of Eros" and stories that are good to hear and to repeat in "On Broadway and Off," by and concerning Otis Skinner, Donald Brian, William Faversham, Rose Stahl and others.

The Smart Set.

A novelette with a Southern California setting is the main feature of the June Smart Set. It is entitled "Hors d'Oeuvres," and is written by Austin Adams, who has contributed many charming short stories to the magazines. A young American girl, who has become impoverished, seeks a situation as governess on the plantation of a wealthy Mexican, and the picture given of her life with this interesting family are delightful. The story is light and rollicking, but it has an undercurrent of seriousness that gives it a place far above the average ephemeral magazine fiction.

Anne Warner, the creator of Susan Clegg, tells a very human little story of an artist who painted only one picture; she has called it, "It Was Sold—That's All." Edna Kenton, whose brilliant fiction has always found many admirers, writes one of the best short stories of the year, entitled, "Loathly Lover." "At Sandy Devil Island" by Charles Warren, is an amusing story of a president who escaped from the cares of office for a fishing expedition and the adventure that befell him. "Carew Carter's Endless Chain" by Morgan Hastings, is a charming little society sketch told in the form of letters. "The Friend," by Lindsay Bashford, "The Lee Shore," by Guy Bolton, "Eben," by W. Carey Wonderly, "Rapture's Roadway," by G. B. Lancaster, "The Mourners," by Pearl Wilkins, "The Seat of Power," by Johnson Morton, "Nera," by Marie Louise Goetchius, and "Non Omnis Moriar," by Harriet Gaylord, are splendid stories that will please every taste.

One of the cleverest essays that the Smart Set has ever printed appears in this number. It is by Arthur Stanley Wheeler, and is curiously called "The Ostrich." Mr. Wheeler boldly yet politely criticizes the milk and water fiction which finds so conspicuous a place in our periodicals. The poetry is, as usual, of a remarkably high standard, and is written by such verse writers as Edward Wilbur Mason, George S. Viereck, Edmund Vance Cooke, Florence Wilkinson, Arthur Ketchum, Grace Duffield Goodwin, Constance Farmar, Archibald Sullivan, Allan Updegraff, John Kendrick Bangs and Clinton Scollard.

The Strand.

In the fiction number (June) of the Strand Magazine, the Rt. Hon. Winston Spencer Churchill, M. P., contributes an extremely interesting article devoted to "The Highlands of East Africa," in which he deals with social and labor problems which are confronting the newcomers in that recently developed section.

Sir John Hare, the eminent English actor, humorously describes, in his "Reminiscences and Reflections," his first appearance on the professional stage, how his self-possession entirely deserted him when he became aware of the sea of faces in front and the hisses and laughter which greeted him.

"The New Color Photography" will be appreciated by amateurs as well as professionals. The pictures which accompany the article are reproduced in colors as taken direct from nature; an article about "The Olympic Champions" contains biographical sketches and photographs of prominent athletes who are likely to compete in the coming Olympian games; "How a Picture is Composed" shows how a number of pictures can be painted from a single background; dog owners will especially enjoy "Dog Stories," and solutions from "Puzzles from Games" will interest chess, checker and domino players and others; "Catkins" will appeal to those interested in nature subjects.

The fiction is particularly strong. W. W. Jacobs contributes a highly amusing instalment of "Salthaven." there is a noteworthy story called "Zory's Race," by Edward Price Bell which gives you from first to last Bell's stories are going to be in great demand. There are a number of other splendid short stories by clever authors, and a charming serial story for children entitled "The House of Arden," by E. Nesbit.

GREAT JERSEY PEACH CROP.

Annual Shriveled Frost Rumor Slips Up on an Icy Greeting.

From the New York Press.

Blizzard blown up 50 steps, count 'em, he stomped into the office about last midnight, and began slamming his arms and hands to his shoulders in vain effort to renew the circulation in his buckskin-gloved but benumbed fingers. Then he stamped and stomped around again and whetted his hands on his shoulders and kicked more snow from his leggins and thick overshoes through which the red flannel was showing where he had interfered at the hocks.

"B-r-r-r-r-r!" he chattered through his ice-incased whiskers above and below where the noise came from. "Thaw me out on the radiator; awful night in Jersey and North Pole.

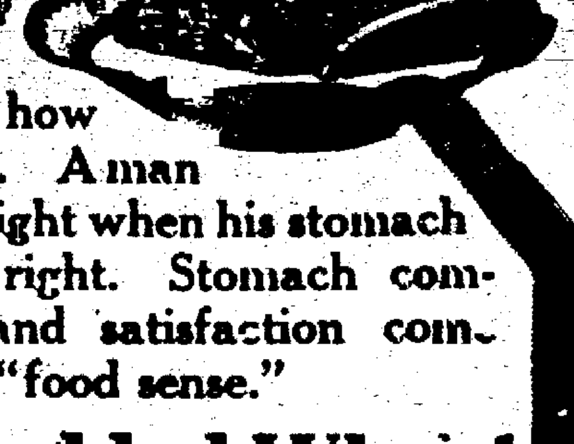

"What, don't want it? Don't want that story that has been printed every year since the Horace Greeley presidential boom was found hidden in a cave in Fayette county, Pennsylvania! Say, young man; you're trifling with your job. No! Sorry for you. Judas Priest, this is the coldest night since"—

Then he wandered whence he came with his tale about the frost killing the Jersey peach crop.

SHIELDS FOR MODERN WARRIORS

From Harper's Bazar.

Recent experiments at Sheffield, England, suggest the possibility that in this century shields may once more form an important part of the equipment of an army. Steel shields, three millimeters in thickness, and about 150 square inches in area, have been devised, which afford complete protection against bullets fired from the service rifle at a range of 400 yards. The small size of the shield, which weighs only seven pounds, requires that the soldier shall lie prone on the ground in order to be sheltered. Each shield has a loophole for the rifle, and studs at the sides, so that a series of them can be linked into a continuous screen. The idea is that by the use of such shields the necessity of digging trenches may be avoided.

GRADUATION EXERCISES

SUPERINTENDENT H. A. KEELEY ANNOUNCES PROGRAM.

Will Be Held Thursday Evening at High School—Baccalaureate Sermon Tomorrow.

The complete program for the commencement exercises of the Manitou High school was announced yesterday by Superintendent H. A. Keeley. The exercises are to be held next Thursday evening at the High school auditorium, the program including essays and orations from each of the four members of the graduating class.

The baccalaureate sermon is to be delivered tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock at St. Andrew's Episcopal church by the Rev. B. W. Bonell. The usual Sunday evening services will be omitted at the First Congregational church in order that all may have an opportunity to hear the baccalaureate sermon.

The class of 1908 is composed of four graduates: Alta Emerson Jones, Mary Elde Lowther, Franklin Whittamore Smith and Frank George Stoessel. The class motto is "We Finish to Begin," the class colors, lavender and white, and the class flowers, lilacs and snowballs. The program for the commencement exercises is as follows:

Invocation ... The Rev. J. William Carson
Violin Solo ... Earl Long
Salutatory and class history ... Alta Emerson Jones
Oration, "Athletics" ... Frank W. Smith
Oration, "The Value of Music in Education" ... Mary Elde Lowther
Piano duet, "Il Trovatore" ... Misses Ida Gilbert and Mary Lowther
Presentation of class gift ... President F. W. Smith
Acceptance of gift ... Supt. H. A. Keeley
Oration and valedictory, "Fight for Forests" ... Frank G. Stoessel
Presentation of class ... Supt. H. A. Keeley
Awarding of diplomas.
Benediction ... The Rev. B. W. Bonell

The final examinations in the schools begin Monday morning and the pupils will receive their report cards next Friday.

READY FOR BAND CONCERTS

Seating Capacity of Park Doubled. Manitou Now Presents Neat Appearance.

In anticipation of the opening of the band concert season the first of June, additional seats for the accommodation of about 1,500 persons will be placed in the Soda Springs park within a few days. This will bring the seating capacity of the park to between 2,500 and 3,000. The Midland band is to play in Manitou every Wednesday and Saturday evening during the season, besides giving one matinee a week. The improvements in the park have all been completed and it is now one of the most beautiful spots in the town.

Many other improvements are being made in preparation of the opening of the tourist season. During the last week Street Commissioner W. H. Fray and his men have been engaged in building cross walks on Ruxton avenue. The completion of these walks will make an excellent walk all the way to the Iron Springs. The response to the request of the council that all citizens clean up their premises has been general and as a result the town has taken on a cleaner and brighter appearance throughout.

A portion of the Montcalme sanitarium building which was burned last October is being repaired. The kitchen, which was not badly damaged, has again been placed in good condition and a summer porch is being built. Work is progressing rapidly on several brick buildings along Ruxton avenue.

MANITOU NEWS NOTES.

At the First Congregational church tomorrow morning, the annual memorial service will be held in honor of the veterans of the G. A. R. The Rev. J. William Carson will deliver a sermon in keeping with the significance of the day. The church will be decorated for the occasion, and patriotic hymns will be a part of the services.

At the next regular meeting of the patronesses of St. Andrew's library, which takes place on June 2, a librarian is to be elected to serve during the coming year. Applications will be received by Mrs. J. B. Wheeler, the secretary, up to that time. A special meeting of the board will be held next Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. C. A. Pollen.

Mrs. William Thompson entertained St. Andrew's guild at her home Thursday afternoon. Those present were Mesdames L. C. Snider, A. J. Redenbaugh, W. O. Hooper, C. A. Pollen, George Crass, W. Smiley, Laura Morrison, Ada Davis, B. W. Bonell, D. D. Escher, W. Paulson, A. S. Boynton, W. Brockhurst, C. E. Bruce, Laura Jackson, Knoeble, Phiter, Silas Thompson, Daggett, H. B. Snyder, M. Acker, Reichmuth and the Rev. B. W. Bonell.

The new Majestic theater, located in the Leddy block, will open Monday afternoon, with performances at 3 p. m., 4 p. m., 7:15 p. m. and 8 p. m. Moving pictures and an illustrated song by Miss Ida Leonard will be the program. The theater is under the management of W. A. Sode and C. W. Allen.

Postmaster H. H. Grafton is still confined to his home by illness and it will be several weeks before he will be able to resume his duties.

Mrs. E. L. McParland returned to Manitou last Monday after an absence of five years in Ireland. She was met in Denver by her husband.

Mrs. Jennings and her daughter, Zetta, mother and sister of H. H. Grafton, will leave tomorrow for their home in Forrest, Ill.

St. Andrew's guild will elect officers at a special meeting Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the chapel.

Invitations are out for the [illegible] Andrew's church. A number of Denver friends will attend the wedding.

F. H. Goodby of Toledo, representative of the Rapid Motor Car company, and his sister, Mrs. C. A. Richmond, of Pontiac, Mich., registered at the Cliff house yesterday.

Chapter K. P. E. O. will meet with Mrs. O. L. Ellinwood, 124 Jackson avenue, Colorado City, today for the last meeting of the season.

Robert Sawin has given up his position in the postoffice and gone to Wyoming to join a party of geographical surveyors.

Miss Dora Blockberger of Delphos, O., has arrived in Manitou to remain during the summer months.

Arrangements have been made by a party of visitors for a burro trip to the summit of Pikes Peak next week.

Mrs. J. McParlin has returned from New York city and taken the Belslin cottage.

Roy Davis left last night for a ten days' trip to Chanute, Kan.

Mrs. M. Acker of Chicago is staying at the Redenbaugh cottage.

What the Press Agents Say

BARGAIN MATINEE AT THE OPERA HOUSE TODAY

"Jakey, Mikey and Ikey," the performance at the Opera House last night pleased a fair-sized audience that came out in spite of the drizzling rain. The performance was one long stretch of laughter throughout. The comedians, Allen Curtis, Arthur Clamage, Charles Figg, Albert Leonard and Herbert Lindley, were exceptionally clever and are real laugh creators. Miss Margarette La Ponte was exceptionally good in her number, "Red Wing." Miss Winifred Greene, the soubrette, won the hearts of her audience in her "Deutschland" number. The singing and dancing chorus is above the average popular-priced show, and as good as a good many two-dollar shows.

This afternoon the company will put on a very funny musical play, "Chow Chow," at bargain prices. Children 10c; adults 25c. Tonight, "The Jolly Widow" will be the bill.

WILLIAM COLLIER IN A NEW PLAY

William Collier and his excellent company will appear at the Opera House on next Tuesday evening in the new farce, "Caught in the Rain," by Mr. Collier and Grant Stewart. Not in many years has there been such a laughing success as this farce, which kept New York in roars for seven months last season.

Here is the story of "Caught in the Rain:" Dick Crawford, a young mining engineer, who thinks nothing of risking his life to save an injured workman, but who runs away at the sight of a pretty face, is driven by a terrific storm, under the shelter of a protecting awning. There, to his dismay, he finds the prettiest girl he has ever seen, Muriel Mason. He is compelled to entertain her during their enforced stay under the awning and he tries to believe that he is anxious to get rid of her, but it is very evident that he is in love. Unfortunately for the smoothness of love's course Dick is mistaken as to the identity of the girl, whom he believes to be Nellie Gardiner. When later he has an opportunity to win a fortune by marrying "Miss Muriel Mason" he regrets the offer on the ground of his love for another girl. The "other girl" is, of course, the real Muriel Mason. Muriel overhears the rejection of her hand and in ignorance of Dick's mistake as to her identity, accepts the offer of marriage of his rascally partner. The marriage is postponed from time to time and a year later when she and Dick meet at a hunting club in the Rockies all is explained and the bashful young man wins the girl of his choice. As Dick Crawford, Mr. Collier has the best role of his career as a star.

"THE GIRL FROM MONTANA" AT THE CRYSTAL.

Manager Lent, at the Crystal theater, has secured, for this afternoon and evening, the famous picture "The Girl From Montana." This is undoubtedly one of the finest, most interesting pictures ever presented to a Colorado Springs audience. It is a beautiful story of a cowboy's love for the Montana girl, his adventures, and arrest as a horse thief, the result of a plot of his rival, and the final reward. This is a picture which is alone well worth the price of admission, and you should not fail to see it. Another intensely interesting picture is, "A Trip on the Imperial Canal, (China)." This is something entirely new, and is sure to be a winner. Jack Begley will sing the beautiful song, "The Girl From the Golden West." Professor Griffith, pianist and musical director has arranged a splendid musical program for this afternoon and evening. Professor Griffith's ability as a pianist is unquestioned, and lovers of music will enjoy the program he has prepared. An hour spent at the Crystal is an hour well spent.

FAIRYLAND SCORES AGAIN.

A magnificent French film picture, "The Legend of a Ghost" being shown at Fairyland this afternoon and evening is deserving of all the good things that have been said of it. It is in colors and is over 1,000 feet long, very beautiful and very interesting. "The End of a Dream" is a dramatic picture that has few equals while "Poverty and Probity" is altogether different; it is just as interesting and one you will be very well pleased with. Mr. Harry B. Frink sings "Down Lovers' Lane" and his rich baritone voice is given full compass in the rendering of this popular song. Mr. Harry Fan is the pianist. Don't miss the program, as it is one of the best Mr. [illegible]

GO RIGHT AT IT

Friends and Neighbors in Colorado Springs Will Show You How.

Get at the root of the trouble.
Rubbing an aching back may relieve it,
But it won't cure it.
You must reach the root of it—the kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills go right at it;
Reach the cause; relieve the pain.
They cure, too, so Colorado Springs people say.

Mrs. Philip Gamble of 719 South Nevada Ave., Colorado Springs, Colo., says: "Mr. Gamble has used Doan's Kidney Pills and speaks very highly of them. His back ached frequently across the loins and kidneys, causing him much inconvenience. If he stooped, lifted or took cold the trouble was always aggravated and at these times he suffered acutely. Procuring Doan's Kidney Pills at the D. Y. Butcher Drug Co.'s store he was soon entirely free from the trouble. Mr. Gamble recommends Doan's Kidney Pills at every opportunity."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's and take no other.

WAS DELIRIOUS WITH ECZEMA

On Chest, Back, and Head—Pain, Heat, and Tingling Were Excruciating—Nerves in Exhausted Condition—Sleep Badly Broken.

CURE BY CUTICURA SEEMED LIKE MAGIC

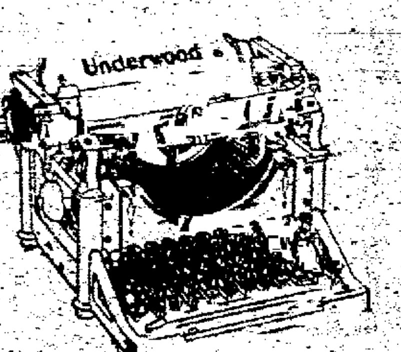

"Words cannot express the gratitude I feel for what Cuticura Remedies have done for my daughter, Adelaide.

She is fifteen years of age, and had never had anything the matter with her skin until four months ago, when an eruption broke out on her chest. The first symptom was a redness, and then followed thickening and blisters, which would break and run matter. I took her to a doctor, and he pronounced it to be eczema of a very bad form. He treated her, but instead of being checked, the disease spread. It showed itself on her back, and then quickly spread upwards until the whole of her head was affected, and all her hair had to be cut off. The pain she suffered was excruciating, and what with that and the heat and tingling her life was almost unbearable. She became run down in health, and at times was very feverish, languid, and drowsy, and occasionally she was delirious. Her nerves were in such a low state that she could not bear to be left alone. In spite of the cold weather she would insist on having her bedroom window open, and would lean out on the window-sill. She did not have a proper hour's sleep for many nights. The second doctor we tried afforded her just as little relief as the first, and I really do not know what we should have done if we had not heard how Cuticura cured a similar case. I purchased Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Pills, and before the Ointment was three quarters finished every trace of the disease was gone. It really seemed like magic. Her hair is coming on nicely, and I still apply the Cuticura Ointment as I find it [illegible] the growth wonderfully. Mrs. T. W. Hyde, 1, Onger Place, [illegible] England, [illegible] 8, 1907."

OUR STRANGLED MERCHANT MARINE

Congressman W. E. Humphrey in American Industries for May.

What followed the failure of the last Congress to do anything for our merchant marine? The great oceanic line, running from San Francisco to Australasia, a line paying the highest wages of any in the world, a line that was training American boys in seamanship, with ships that had been built so as to be used as an auxiliary for our navy, was immediately abandoned and these great vessels no longer run. These magnificent ships are today lying idle in San Francisco bay, and unless the government comes to their aid, the American flag has disappeared from them forever. Yet this nation, since these American vessels stopped running, has paid to foreign vessels for carrying the same mail over the same route that these American vessels would have carried it, practically the same amount that was asked to aid these vessels in the defeated bill, and the service of the foreign ships is in every way inferior to what would have been given by the American ships. The amount of money that we are now paying to foreign vessels for carrying our mails would not only have kept these three American vessels running, but for that amount this line would have added two more new vessels. The fleet of American ships on the Pacific has been reduced within the past year from 15 to eight vessels. Only two sailing now go regularly to the Philippines and these are to be sold as soon as a purchaser can be found. The government has given notice that it must send its mails for South America twice across the Atlantic in foreign vessels.

"Life a Burden"

Now Entirely Cured

Did it ever occur to you that, in the ads you have read from time to time, about Wine of Cardui, there was a possible, personal application, to yourself?

Well, there is.

In fact, every ad is written for you, not only to read, but to act on.

We want to cure you. We want you, yourself, to give Cardui a fair trial.

So, to convince you, just you, of the value of Cardui as a medicine, for you, we ask you to read what Mrs. Eells of New Hartford, Ia., says: "For 24 years, I was afflicted with female troubles, making life a burden. I tried doctors and various remedies, without relief. Finally, I took Cardui and now I am entirely cured." Now please act. Get a bottle of Cardui today, and try it. You will feel better tomorrow.

MUSICAL TEA A SUCCESS.

Large Attendance in Spite of the Heavy Rain.

A musical tea was given by the ladies of the Steele Kindergarten association yesterday afternoon. The steady downpour of rain threatened to interfere with the plans of the association, but the members proved that they have an interest in the school that cannot be dampened by so trivial a matter as a shower, and the kindergarten quarters were crowded to overflowing with interested patrons and friends of the association.

The first part of the program was given by the little tots of the kindergarten, under the direction of Miss Margaret B. Speer, director of the class, and they rendered their recitations and songs with the unconscious grace and sweetness so characteristic of little children.

After the class had finished its share the program the visitors were still further entertained by a reading and musical numbers given by some of the ladies present. The program in full follows:

Song ..... "The Tulips"
School.
Recitation ..... "Pretty Pussy"
Charles Wright.
Song ..... "Wake, Says the Sunshine"
School.
Recitation ..... "The Rain Coach"
James Strachan.
Song ..... "Over the Bare Hills"
Thelma Atkinson, Regina Aitken, Wealthy Johnson, Stella Russell, Margaret Upton, Jo Atkinson, George Roberts, James Jacobs, James Strachan.
Song ..... "Five Little Mice"
Elizabeth Fertig.
Song ..... "Teddy Bear"
Elizabeth Howbert, Stella Russell, Wealthy Johnson, Lauraline Allen, Elizabeth Fertig.
Song ..... "The Hurdy Gurdy Man"
Margaret Upton.
Song ..... "My Old Dan"
Jo Atkinson, James Jacobs, George Forester, Charles Wright, George Roberts.
Song ..... "Baby Bunting"
Wealthy Johnson.
Vocal solo .....
Mrs. W. W. Flora.
Piano solo .....
Miss Amma Bispham.
Vocal solo .....
Miss Isabel Morrison.
Reading .....
Mrs. Morath.
Vocal solo .....
Miss Marie Rohl.

After the completion of the program the visitors were invited into the adjoining room, which was tastefully decorated in pink, and were served with refreshments. Miss Jacobs served the punch and Mrs. Barnes poured the tea. Mesdames Upton Purdy and Morath assisting.

The past year has been a particularly successful one, and no small share of the credit is due the director, Miss Speer, whose untiring zeal and enthusiasm have made the kindergarten possible. The association is also indebted to Miss Jacobs and Mrs. Johnson, who have so freely given of their time.

While the independent kindergarten has been a success as far as it has gone, it has not reached all children of kindergarten age on account of the cost of tuition, and there seemed to be a general feeling among those present that the board of education has done a wise thing in assuming the burden of the association and making it possible for all to enjoy the privileges of the kindergarten. If the interest manifested yesterday may be taken as a criterion, the Steele kindergarten will not lack for pupils next fall when school opens.

"FARES" SAYS THE GHOST.

Astral Self of a Deceased Conductor Appears on Brooklyn Road, So Late Travelers Say.

From the New York World.

Flatbush residents who use the Woodruff avenue station on the Brighton Beach division of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit now have a nickel in hand late o' nights as a talisman against a phantom conductor who is credited with haunting the station.

The story goes that the spook has terrified two pretty station agents, who requested that they be transferred to other stations. It is certain that the transfers have been made, although it is not on record that the phantom conductor was the cause.

He's a perfectly harmless ghost, and all that is necessary to make him vanish is to display a nickel. Flatbushites who boast of having seen him say that he appears at the outside of the station window, and if a belated passenger approaches murmurs:

"Fares!"

If a nickel is displayed, he is appeased and disappears. The window at which he watches overlooks the "cut" through which the trains pass after leaving the Park Place station on their way to Brighton Beach. Some go so far as to say that they have recognized the conductor as one who... inspectors worried into his grave. Fear that a fare would escape him and that his error would be detected caused his demise. So his astral self is now ruled by the passion for vigilance.

And it doesn't cost the Brooklyn Rapid Transit a cent for his ghostly espionage.

BLUE BIRD PRODUCING

PROPERTY IS ACTIVE UNDER NEW LESSEES.

Quartz Shows Gray Copper and Also Runs as High as Two Ounces in Gold.

Special to The Gazette.

ALTMAN, May 22.—The Blue Bird mine on the southern slope of Bull hill, owned by The Blue Bird Mining and Milling company, E. S. Johnson of Colorado Springs, president and treasurer, under lease to Charles M. Becker and associates, is again producing steadily after a long period of inactivity. Since the lessees secured possession, about six weeks ago, a steady production has been maintained of from four to six cars a week, and while the ore marketed is of low average grade, profits are rapidly accruing. Miners are at the present time engaged in breaking ore in three levels from the 400 to the 600-foot points, operations below that depth being hampered by foul air.

In addition to the mining of low grade milling ore, quartz is being saved for future shipment, carrying high silver values, recent assay tests showing a silver content as high as 427 ounces to the ton. The quartz shows gray copper and also runs as high as two ounces gold to the ton.

DANTE IS AGAIN SHIPPING

Sinking Operations Suspended to Permit Hoisting of Ore—Values Between $18 and $35.

Special to The Gazette.

VICTOR, May 22.— Since the first of the present week the British-American Mining company, operating the south 1,000 feet of the Dante mine on Bull hill, has suspended sinking operations to permit of the hoisting of ore, and heavy shipments are resulting. Since Sunday 15 cars of ore have been loaded and billed out to the mill of the United States Reduction and Refining company at Colorado City. This ore, while of milling grade, returns values of from $18 to $35 a ton, with an occasional car returning smelting-grade value. The leasing company is paying handsome monthly dividends.

MILL SOON READY FOR ORE

Plant Being Erected by Trilby Mines Company Nearing Completion. Capacity 100 Tons.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, May 22.—The mill of the Trilby Mines company, under construction on the Trilby and Ben Harrison claims on the southern slope of Bull hill, will be in readiness for the treatment of ore by Monday, June 1. All leases on this ground having expired, no extensions will be granted, as the management has determined to operate on company account. A production of from five to seven cars a week of an average value of $30 a ton is the present output, and the ore is consigned to the valley plants. The mill at the commencement will handle the low grade ores only. The plant is modern in every respect and will use the cyanide process. Its capacity will approximate 100 tons daily.

RICH STRIKE REPORTED

Secrecy Maintained Concerning Shipment From Stratton Property.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, May 22.—A consignment of sacked ore was loaded out yesterday from block 86 of the Stratton estate, covering portions of the Monitor and Proper claims on Globe hill, north and east of the C. O. D. mine. The property is under lease to Wright and associates of this city, who are reported to have made a rich strike near to surface. The lessees decline information and the late shipment was surrounded with secrecy, the lessees declining any information as to values or extent or character of the ore body.

COMANCHE PLUME SHIPPING.

Special to The Gazette.

ELKTON, May 22.—Baker and company leasing on the Comanche Plume on the western slope of Battle mountain, have loaded out two cars this month of about one-ounce grade, and are preparing their third consignment. Operating through the tunnel on the Mountain Goat claim, the [illegible] are stoping on a four-foot vein of oxidized ore, that requires but little sorting to maintain the value as above reported.

BUSINESS GENERALLY QUIET

Conditions Rather Unsatisfactory Taken as Whole Over Country. Industrial Situation Slack.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Mixed conditions prevailing in the crop, trade and industrial situation prevent generalization, except to say that crops as a whole are in better shape than a week ago. There is a better tone in some lines of wholesale trade and retail business has been benefited in some sections by better weather. Still, as a whole, business is quiet beyond the normal and the industrial situation is still slack.

Business failures in the United States for the week ending May 21 number 254, against 281 last week, 185 in the like week of 1907, 179 in 1906, 179 in 1905 and 184 in 1904.

Business failures in Canada for the week number 29, against 22 last week and 19 in this week in 1907.

Wheat, including flour, exports from the United States and Canada for the week ending May 21 aggregate 2,830,254 bushels, against 2,701,506 last week, 2,684,232 this week last year, and 5,184,839 in 1902. For the 47 weeks of the fiscal year the exports are 186,096,228 bushels, against 153,279,090 in 1906-07 and 228,780,748 in 1901-02.

Corn exports for the week are 55,892 bushels, against 102,270 last week, and 1,669,115 in 1907. For the fiscal year to date the exports are 44,533,817 bushels, as against 68,740,769 in 1906-07.

ACTION OF MARKET CONFUSING TO OPERATORS.

Constant Backing and Filling Indicative of Manipulation on Part of Professionals.

NEW YORK, May 22.—The contraction in the dealings in stocks today seemed to indicate some subsidence of speculative interest, the total sales of the day falling to the smallest for any day this week. The price movement was as puzzling to any effort to discern the real convictions of those operating in the market as for several days past. The constant backing and filling kept alive a suspicion that concealment was being sought for the genuine transactions under a cloud of manipulative orders and the shifting operations of the traders induced by these orders. The opening prices, coupled with the brisk rally at yesterday's closing, resulted in bringing prices in some cases up to near the high levels touched earlier in the week.

Traders who thought that this heralded an advance to new high levels and who bought stocks on the assumption were then disconcerted by a sharp reaction. The movement thereafter was almost wholly confused. The reaction came at the time announcement was made that a suit had been filed by the government against the New Haven system, alleging violation of the antitrust law. The mitigation of the rigor of the administration policy for the pursuit of railroad corporations had been a good deal dwelt on in speculative discussion as one of the grounds for the recent advance in the stock market.

This new move appealed to some of those who had bought stocks on such assumptions. Otherwise there was little reflection of new events in the day's market except in individual stocks.

Pacific Mail jumped spasmodically on the news that the ship subsidy provision had gone to conference in the postoffice appropriation bill, and relapsed even more violently when the vote rejecting the conference report was reported. National Lead reflected a report that the price of the metal had been advanced. The special heaviness of Amalgamated Copper was partly in response to a decline in that metal in London. The renewed decision of the Steel magnate to maintain the prices of finished products seemed to meet with the favor of stock operators, United States Steel rising sharply at the outset. That stock moved as narrowly and sluggishly throughout as it has for a long time past.

Not much interest was shown in the forecasts of the bank statement, owing to the unvaried ease of the money market. The week's absorption by the subtreasury and the gold exports amounted to $5,736,000, and only enough cash seems to have been received on balance on the interior movement to reduce this drain to about $5,000,000. Discount rates declined both in London and Paris today. Foreign exchange here was unchanged. Time money showed some activity, especially for six month loans, which were made at 3½ per cent.

Bonds heavy. Total sales, par value, $4,546,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

WHEAT CLOSES LOWER

FAVORABLE CROP REPORTS AFFECT PRICES.

July Delivery Shows One-Half Cent Decline at Close—Corn and Provisions Also Down.

CHICAGO, May 22.—Optimistic reports regarding the condition of the crop in Kansas caused weakness today in the local wheat market, the July delivery closing at a net decline of ½c. Corn was down 5-8@3-4c; provisions were 5@7½ to 10c lower.

The wheat market was erratic, prices ranging from 1-4 to 1-2c higher to 1-2@5-8c lower than the close yesterday. The greatest weakness was manifested late in the day and was caused chiefly by a report from Kansas. Wheat crop in Kansas, in spite of damage by drought, will be anywhere from 80,000,000 to 100,000,000 bushels. Damage reports received early in the day from Bulgaria, Roumania and Kansas had a strengthening effect. A bearish factor was the large amount of wheat shipped from Argentina during the week. The market closed weak. July opened 1-8 to 1-4c lower at 90 5-8 to 90 1-2, advanced to 91 1-8c and then declined to 90 1-8, where it closed. Primary receipts were 350,000 bushels against 526,000 bushels on the same day last year. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 192 cars against 183 cars last week and 340 cars one year ago.

Corn was weak on selling. Trade in the May delivery was light, but that option dropped from 77 3-4 to 75c. The market closed weak with May at 77 1-2. July opened 1-8@1-4 to 1-4@3-8c higher at 66 1-4 to 66 3-8, declined to 65 1-4@3-8 and closed at 65 3-8. Local receipts were 152 cars, with 61 of contract grade.

The oats market was steady all day, the feature being the selling of September longs. July opened unchanged at 46 7-8, sold between 46 3-4 and 46 7-8 @47, and closed at 46 7-8. Local receipts were 180 cars.

Provisions were weak on selling of lard by local packers. A 5 to 10c advance in live hogs had apparently no effect. At the close, July pork was 10c lower at $13.62½; lard was 10c lower at $8.47½; ribs were 5@7½c lower at $7.35@$7.37½.

Mrs. S. Joyce, 120 Sullivan St., Claremont, N. H., writes: "About a year ago I bought two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure. It cured me of a severe case of kidney trouble of several years' standing. It certainly is a grand, good medicine, and I heartily recommend it." For sale by all dealers.

WASN'T ASLEEP AT SWITCH.

From the New York World.

"Such lovely switches!"

Joe Franklin felt his arm twitched and the pretty girl walking with him pushed him right up against the show window of Rose Schenk, at 76 Clinton street. Inside lay two shining coils of blonde tresses, a near-match for his sweetheart's flaxen hair, and the price was only $4.

Franklin, who is 26 years old, and lives at 320 East One Hundred and Eighteenth street, didn't have $3 last Saturday night, and so he said he would buy those lovely switches later when the place was not so crowded. His sweetheart said he was a generous fellow and nearly looked into another shop window all the way home.

When the last good-by was said Joe went back to the hairdresser's window. Taking a chisel from his pocket he pried up one corner of the sash and had just possessed himself of the "lovely switches" when Miss Schenk spotted him and gave the alarm. A policeman locked him up, and before Magistrate Kernochan, in Essex Market court, yesterday Joe told the whole story tearfully.

"I just had to have those switches," said Joe earnestly. "My girl she said I must give them to her, and I had no money. What could I do?"

He was held in $500 bail on a charge of petit larceny.

If every man tried as hard to return money as he tried to borrow it, there would be fewer debts in the world.

OBEYED ORDERS

From Forest and Stream.

A ranchman living in that locality noticed a small bunch of teal that were in the habit of using a pond not far from his dwelling. He requested Legrand to try his luck with them the next morning, when they could be easily found. Legrand, however, was short of ammunition, so the ranchman gave him a shell which he jokingly remarked was enough for a good shot, and he expected him to come back with the whole bunch, numbering six. On the ensuing day Legrand departed before sunrise, but returned to breakfast empty-handed. "No ducks, Legrand?" He shook his head; "No ducks." The next morning the result was the same. "No ducks, Legrand?" "No ducks."

The third morning a shot was heard. Legrand returned with three beautiful blue-winged teal hanging from each shoulder.

"Legrand, how did you manage to have so much luck all of a sudden, when you were not able to get anything the two preceding mornings?"

"Today," he replied, "was the first time I could get them lined up so that I could bag them all at one shot."

"BABY MINE"

Every mother dreads the pain attendant upon the most critical period of her life. Becoming a mother should be a source of joy, but the suffering incident to the ordeal makes its anticipation one of dread. Mother's Friend is the only remedy which relieves women of much of the pain of maternity; this hour, dreaded as woman's severest trial, is not only made less painful, but danger is avoided by its use. Those who use this remedy are no longer despondent or gloomy; nervousness, nausea and other distressing conditions are overcome, and the system is prepared for the coming event by the use of Mother's Friend. "It is worth its weight in gold," says many who have used it. $1.00 per bottle at drug stores. Book containing information of value to all women, sent free upon application to BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

When the Honeymoon days are over, what is more natural for the prudent young couple than to think of their own home? A mated man and woman yearn for the seclusion of their own fireside and their own home. Boarding, living with parents, or dwelling in a rented flat or house is all right when it is preparatory to getting one's own home. No matter how humble, no matter how small, there is a fascination about ownership.

And then there is the other side to be thought of. Ownership is cheaper than paying rent. Through building associations and the accommodation of banks it is possible for people to buy homes and pay very little more than rent.

Every day in the columns of THE GAZETTE are advertised places where young people may go, where they may, figuratively speaking, pitch their tent, dwell in happiness, and become taxpayers and citizens of their city.

Our Guaranteed "Lost Ads"

Think of it—we guarantee to secure return of any lost article or no pay.
Give us a description of the article, any particulars, etc.; if we return it, pay the usual rate for the advertisement; if it is not returned, pay NOTHING.
